

Proxmire Aims To Keep Down Living Costs

Also Pledges His Efforts to Check Federal Spending

BY RICHARD P. POWERS
Washington — Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said today his aim in the new congress will be sound legislation to keep down the cost of living and to check government spending.

"I accept my reelection as a mandate for vigorous action to solve the problems of securing peace, freedom and a better life while exercising care and prudence in spending public money," Proxmire said.

Proxmire won reelection to a full 6-year term in the November election. He has served since late 1957 when he won a special election to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Will See Nelson
Proxmire in a newsletter pledged to sponsor anti-inflation measures to cut government spending, plug tax loopholes and conduct a thorough investigation of how government policies affect prices.

This is his first newsletter since June when he announced he would not use his free mailing privilege to send it during his campaign for reelection.

Proxmire plans to be in Madison to see Democratic Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin sworn in Jan. 5. He will leave soon afterward for the opening of the new congress Jan. 7.

Discuss Problems
He said he and Nelson recently had a highly satisfactory discussion of federal-state problems and he looks forward to excellent cooperation with the new governor.

"Voters across the nation," Proxmire said, "have firmly and clearly called for positive, constructive and progressive government action to meet the great challenges of our time."

Winning peace, he said, is the most important job this nation ever had.

He said no domestic problem is more important to all Americans than the job of keeping down the cost of living. He said he believes government costs "can be held down without cutting needed public services."

Proxmire said farm voters in the Nov. 4 election "expressed powerful disapproval" of policies of Sec. of Agriculture Benson.

Illinois Couple Dies When Plane Crashes

Kansas City — A light plane crashed in a residential area of Kansas City yesterday, killing an Illinois couple. It hit the ground in a 50-foot space between two houses and no one else was hurt.

The plane stopped only five feet from the house of Harry H. Huntman. The wreckage caught fire and the flames scorched the paint of Huntman's house. Two small children were in the room nearest the wreckage.

Killed were the pilot, Halton H. Friend, 56, and his wife, Jeannette, 44, of Crystal Lake, Ill.

A few minutes before the crash, Friend radioed municipal airport that the engine on his 4-place plane was afire.

Urge Search For Balloon Over Ocean

London — A new call went out last night for south Atlantic and Caribbean shipping to watch for the British balloon trying to span the Atlantic. Venezuelan officials decided a report that it had come down in their country was a hoax.

The London Daily Mail, sponsor of the 3,000-mile trip, requested Lloyd's Marine Insurance agency to put out the radio message after the word from Caracas.

4 Persons Aboard

Lloyd's broadcast a similar message a week ago, but the balloon, trying to float from the Canary islands to Barbados, in the West Indies, was not sighted. It was last heard from Dec. 17.

The 46-foot balloon, named the Small World, is carrying three men and a woman, all British, in a small gondola suspended beneath.

The reported landing on the Atlantic coast of Venezuela was supposed to have come from a radio amateur. Venezuelan officials labeled it a hoax after a fruitless 2-day search of the jungle swampland at the mouth of the Orinoco river, where the Small World was reported down.

The Venezuelans began a search for the hoaxer.

Although the lack of radio messages has raised fears for the safety of the Small World's crew, the craft is not actually overdue.

It left the Canary Islands, off Morocco, Dec. 12. The trip was expected to take from two to three weeks, but the quartet carried food for three months.

Weather experts, however, believe a heavy storm may have forced the Small World down in the Atlantic.

Jap Premier Sees Crisis Fails to Persuade Three Ministers Not to Resign

Tokyo — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi is facing his most serious political threat in 19 months in office after his failure to persuade three cabinet members not to resign.

The three are members of Kishi's liberal democratic (conservative) party. They are part of a group of dissidents who want a bigger share of top party jobs and cabinet posts.

The dissidents want the January election of a party president postponed until March in hopes they can whip up enough opposition to Kishi to take the posts of party president and premier away from him. They also want lesser party and government posts reshuffled immediately.

The ministers who resigned Saturday are Hirokichi Nado, education; Takeo Miki, economic planning board; and Hayato Ikeda, minister without portfolio.

If not satisfied in their demands, the party rebels may boycott parliament, and this could lead to its dissolution. The liberal democrats hold 226 of the 467 seats in the lower house. Dissidents claim some 120 of the 226. The opposition socialists have 166.

The crisis was touched off when Kishi tried to get a bill through parliament giving police greater powers to crack down on leftist demonstrations. The socialists forced him to back down.

Widened Trade Seen as 10 Nations Ease Money Curbs

Traders in France Back New Setup

Paris — Stock traders showed confidence today in the government's program for a housecleaning of the French economy. Gold and French stock issues steadied with slight rises in the first session after the devaluation of the franc.

Though ordinary folks received the news of cheaper money, fewer subsidies, higher prices and increased taxes with a sense of shock, optimism was reflected among stock market professionals.

French values went up by only 3 to 5 per cent and foreign values, which were expected to adjust automatically to the 17.55 per cent cut in the value of the franc, went down only 3 to 5 per cent.

Trading was active at the opening, but an equilibrium was rapidly reached between bids and demands.

Gold Price Rises

The one-kilogram gold ingot (2 2046 pounds) sold at 555,000 francs (about $1,237) against 546,000 last week—an increase of about 1.65 per cent. However, speculation had caused heavy gold buying—and a steep rise in the price of gold—before the devaluation was announced Saturday.

The 20 gold coin was unchanged at 17,800 francs, last week's quotation.

Foreign currencies were traded slightly under the free market with the dollar quoted at 492 against its official value of 493.706.

Finance Minister Antoine Pinay spelled out higher prices for French consumers at a news conference.

Rice, chocolate, bread, preserves, macaroni and other foods will cost more, he said, adding to the already known price increases in tobacco, wine, milk, coal and rail fares.

For the manufacturer and farmer, Pinay outlined the National Lines Face Threat of Strike by Agents

By the Associated Press

The threat of a strike next month against National Air Lines loomed today as two other major airlines remained grounded by labor disputes.

The Air Line Ticket Agents association said in Miami yesterday it was preparing to take a strike vote over discharge of a national employee in New York last year.

A union spokesman said if the vote favored the strike, it could begin early next month. National said the possible walkout would be a wildcat strike since the issue is not recognized by the contract as a cause for striking.

The New York Times said the federal mediators plan to offer today a new proposed settlement of the dispute between Eastern and its flight engineers.

Four Young Men Were Killed and a fifth critically injured early Sunday when this automobile crashed through a barricade and hurtled into a road under construction three miles west of Racine. The accident took the lives of Gerald Sorenson, Terry Howland, Gordon Stein and Walter J. Scott, all of Milwaukee.

19-Day Newspaper Strike Concluded in New York City

Morning Papers Published; Cost Set at $50 Million

New York — The costliest newspaper strike in the city's history is over—to the delight of some 8 million New Yorkers.

Deliverers went back to work early today with a new two-year contract. It gave them a $5.30 wage increase and other benefits. They ratified it yesterday by a 4-1 margin to end the 19-day walk-out.

Stands Reopened

The strike took an economic toll estimated at $50 million. All four morning newspapers published. Editions began hitting the streets of this news-starved city about 2 a.m., four hours after the strike's end.

They were the first since Dec. 11, when the nine major daily newspapers halted operations.

Plants of the five afternoon papers buzzed again with activity as they resumed normal schedules.

Hundreds of newsstand dealers threw open their shutters. They stacked up piles of papers for news-hungry buyers.

Funk, Hitler Minister, Fined in West Berlin

Berlin — West Berlin's denazification court today ordered Hitler's economics minister, Walter Funk, to pay a fine of 10,900 marks ($2,504) for his Nazi activities.

The court said the fine was equal to the value of the property—bank accounts—which Funk still has in West Berlin. The court declared the 68-year-old Funk had been responsible for much that went on under the Nazis. The court singled out decrees which stripped Jews of their property and doomed them to ruin.

who normally purchase 54 million copies daily. The weekend marked the third in a row they have been without the 84 million Sunday editions usually sold.

The deliverers voted yesterday to accept the new contract by a count of 2,091 to 537. The Honest Ballot association conducted the voting. As the result was announced last night, a back-to-work call went out to the union's 4,400 members and to 15,000 non-striking newspaper employees.

Albuquerque Hit By Record Snow; Power Lines Cut

Albuquerque, N.M. — A records now blanketed Albuquerque 11 inches deep during the night.

It virtually crippled the city, leaving thousands of residents without power or transportation.

The heavy wet snow sent tree branches crashing into the streets, dragged down or broke power lines, and brought early morning traffic to a near standstill.

It temporarily isolated the city of 250,000. All roads were temporarily blocked.

A power company which serves the city said that nearly 30,000 of the 68,000 electric meters in the city were out of operation this morning because of broken power lines. There was no estimate when normal service could be resumed.

Many Albuquerque business firms were working with skeleton crews because many employees were snowed in at home.

Sandia Corp., which employs 6,800 persons, and AFC Industries, Inc., employing 2,100 persons, reported fewer than half their employees reported for work.

Sandia Corp. operates the atomic installation at Sandia special weapons base. AFC Industries makes metal implements for atomic energy commission.

Rockefeller Resigns As Federal Adviser

Gettysburg, Pa. — Nelson A. Rockefeller resigned today as an adviser to the Eisenhower administration on ways to improve federal government efficiency.

He got warm praise from the president for his efforts and service.

Rockefeller, about to take office as governor of New York, said the president's achievements in improving government organization have been truly outstanding.

The incoming governor added, however, that in the next two years the administration can do a lot more to increase government efficiency.

Jet Crashes Into Village Woman Killed, Gas Station, Homes And Trailers Hit

Kesgrave, England — A crashing U.S. Air Force Supersabre jet fighter tore a 100-yard-long trail of destruction through this little Suffolk village today.

The plane, its engine afire, plowed into the ground only a minute after taking off. It killed a woman, wrecked a gas station and a house and damaged several others, and destroyed about 30 trailers parked in a sales yard.

The pilot First Lt. Charles L. Prescott of Santa Monica, Calif., escaped. He used his ejector seat and parachuted to safety unhurt.

Several people were reported injured. Two of them were taken to a hospital.

The plane was attached to the 79th Tactical Fighter squadron at Woodbridge.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said the plane's engine exploded just after the F100 took off from Woodbridge, about five miles from Kesgrave.

Wreckage from the burning plane also plowed through a row of dog kennels, killing some of the animals.

Eyewitnesses reported ammunition from the burning plane was "popping off all over the place."

British Securities Up At Start of Trading Under European Accord

BY ALVIN STEINKOPF

London — A strong worldwide demand for British government securities developed today after weekend announcements by 10 West European nations that foreigners holding their currencies may convert them into any kind of money.

Government leaders generally predicted the liberalizing of foreign exchange restrictions would encourage wider trade.

Investors grasped their first opportunity, on the opening of the London Stock Exchange, to demonstrate confidence in the state's securities, and the freer pound, now convertible into dollars at official rates by all foreigners, stood up well to other currencies.

It sagged a little in the first hours of trading but it was supported strongly at home and started going forward.

The spectacular feature of early deals was the lively demand for government securities, which in a matter of minutes were hoisted by as much as 8 shillings 9 pence ($1.22).

Loan from W. Germany
Freer convertibility of the major European currencies seemed to be off to a promising start. Some doubts were expressed—chiefly in France.

There, with devaluation of the franc and an austerity budget, the country faced a more serious financial shakeup than other lands.

The French position was relieved somewhat by today's announcement it is receiving a $60 million loan from West Germany, and by reports that other European states may come to France's assistance. There were rumors that Britain might help, but a treasury spokesman said that no statement on the matter is contemplated.

Reports from the continent indicated no unusual excitement on stock exchanges. Currency rates were changing very little.

Traders in some lands, among them Italy and Norway, were adopting a wait-and-see attitude, with currency exchanges doing little buying or selling.

Predict Trade Increase
The London Stock Exchange started quoting the new "heavy" French franc, the first rate being 1,375 francs to the pound. The heavy franc thus improved a little from a rate of 1,382 to the pound in Saturday's devaluation.

Banknote quotations on Switzerland's free money market were temporarily suspended and there were no large scale transactions. Some conversions were being made for tourists.

The French stock exchange was active, with prices tending upward. Petroleum shares were especially lively.

British businessmen, sorting out the convertibility puzzle, were expecting no direct benefits but believed they will gain in the long run because a freer pound should give them a bigger share of world trade.

Higher Postage Rate
Socialist critics, particularly in Britain, predicted a depletion of foreign exchange holdings, possible depression and increasing unemployment.

Businessmen mostly welcomed the change, but many were reluctant to forecast the outcome. Sharper competition was generally anticipated.

There also was some expectation of more buying in the United States since dollars might be cheaper and easier elimination or sharp trimming of subsidies that are in-

Climax Nearing in Cuba's Civil War

Rebel Troops Smashing at Troops Of President Batista in Eastern Areas; Fighting Rages Elsewhere

Havana —(U)— A climax in Cuba's 2-year-old civil war appeared to be drawing near today. Fidel Castro's rebels smashed at government forces in eastern Cuba, and President Batista's army waged a fierce offensive against insurgents in the central part of the island.

In Oriente province, at the eastern end of the island, the rebel radio said four of Castro's columns were marching toward Oriente's capital, Santiago De Cuba, after hitting army forces elsewhere in the province.

The rebels said their goal was to set up an insurgent government in Oriente shortly.

In the central province of Las Villas, Batista's forces apparently had started a large-scale offensive to counter a string of rebel victories which threatened the provincial capital of Santa Clara.

4 Young Men Killed When Auto Crashes

Christmas Holiday Toll on Wisconsin Roads Reaches 14

Milwaukee —(U)— A Racine county crash which killed four young Milwaukeeans Sunday was the climax of Wisconsin's 102-hour count of traffic deaths during the Christmas holiday weekend.

The period produced 14 traffic deaths, compare with 22 during last year's Christmas period, and boosted Wisconsin's 1958 total to 814, compared with 915 on this date last year.

The violent 1-car accident killed Gerald Sorensen, 22; Gordon Stein, 24; Walter J. Scott, 23, and Terry Howland, 24. A fifth Milwaukeean, John M. Schmidt, 22, was injured critically.

They were riding south on U.S. Highway 41 at 4 a.m. when the car failed to turn onto a temporary by-pass road at a place where an overpass is being constructed. The auto plunged through a steel guard fence and then sailed, end over end, for 150 feet.

Truck Overturns
Frank Wickert, 39, of rural West Bend, died Sunday in a West Bend hospital of a broken neck suffered at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday when his auto overturned near Allenton in Washington county.

Everette Kurth, 43, Hartford, was killed Saturday in the cab of his gasoline transport truck. The vehicle overturned after running off Washington County Highway X southeast of Hartford.

Mrs. Betty Becker, 31, Milwaukee, and her daughter, Sandra Sue, 1, were killed Saturday in the collision of their auto and a Chicago and North Western freight train about 3½ miles east of Jefferson.

Other fatalities were listed in dispatches last week.

shop and the Wenninger Grocery store.

The Hep Cat cafe and the residence of Oliver Morgan, both located in adjacent frame structures, were burned out.

Gene Northrup, a police officer, said he discovered the fire at 2 a.m. as he made his rounds. Northrup began awakening residents and asked a passerby to turn in the alarm.

Mrs. Georgia Bell Bowman, a n. Houston, Texas, looks in a mirror to survey damage done when Lucius A. Wilson was forced to trim her locks—and his—at gunpoint by Indiana tavern Operator Donald B. Parker. Parker said he became angry when he found the woman in the company of Wilson.

Bill Frazer, 16-Year-Old schoolboy of Pacoima, Calif., displays a letter he received from Vice Admiral Kiyohide Shima of Japan in answer to a letter Bill sent the admiral. Bill wanted to know why Shima withdrew his fleet from the battle of Leyte gulf in 1944. "It was quite clear that we should only fall into a ready trap," replied Shima.

Jap Admiral Reveals Secret' to Schoolboy

Tells California Lad Fear of Trap Made Him Withdraw From Leyte Battle

Los Angeles —(U)— A Japanese admiral has told a U.S. schoolboy his fear of a trap led him to withdraw his fleet when the Americans invaded the Philippines in World war II.

The 2,000-word letter of Vice Adm. Kiyohide Shima to 16-year-old Bill Frazer of Pacoima, Calif., broke the admiral's long silence on a mystery which has puzzled war historians.

Hopes For 'A'
Frazer had asked Shima why he pulled his forces out of the crucial battle of Leyte gulf in October, 1944. The youth will use the information in a history term paper in junior high school.

Expressing gratitude for the admiral's response, young Frazer added: "I hope I get an A on the paper."

While U.S. forces were fighting for a foothold on Leyte island, Shima withdrew the ships of his second division from a running sea battle in Surigao strait.

The admiral wrote Frazer that the Japanese-first division of Vice Adm. Nishimura was destroyed by the Americans. His own flagship, the heavy cruiser, Nachi, was crippled by a collision with another Japanese cruiser and was limited to a top speed of 20 knots.

"It was quite clear that we should only fall into a ready trap," Shima said. "I considered all such things—events, circumstances, possibilities. Then I came to my decision that it would be better to retreat from the strait and wait a chance to know how everything went."

The Los Angeles Examiner, which published the copyrighted letter, said it is "certain to become one of the great historical documents of the war in the Pacific."

In a preface to his answer, the admiral wrote: "I can even now assure you that my decisions and judgments of the day in Surigao strait were adequate and proper. I have never made any protest or any sort of thing against my understandings, for I believe that the truth would prove by itself in the long run of history."

Deeply Impressed
"But this time," he continued, "I am deeply impressed by your eagerness and enthusiasm to find out the truth of the war in spite of your age. I will explain the truth which I myself encountered at that time in Surigao strait."

At another point in his letter, the admiral wrote: "I am afraid little information concerning activities of the Shima fleet during the battle are found in the U.S. and many reports on the battle are written neither with ample knowledge nor facts of actual features. It is very much to be regretted."

"The truth of the war should be understood through facts gathered from many slides and induced to a conclusion so as not to lose the balance of the day, in which the truth might rest."

Scientists Offer New Plans for Gigantic U. S. Space Station

Wheel-Type Vehicle Would be Shot Aloft by 3-Stage Rocket

Washington —(U)— A new plan for a gigantic wheel in space—intended as a laboratory 500 miles above the earth—was proposed today.

Scientists from the Lockheed missile systems division of Sunnyvale, Calif., predicted that the space art will be advanced enough to do the job in about 10 years. It would cost more than $2 billion, they estimated.

The wheel with five spokes would be assembled in space, with ready-made units fired up to a construction crew.

In operation it would support a scientific crew of 10 men for six months completely independent of earth supply. It would have a nuclear power supply as it orbited around the earth.

Basic Rocket
The basic rocket which would boost the space station compartments into orbit would be a 3-stage giant, according to the Lockheed proposal.

The first stage would develop a million pounds of thrust and is to be designed to be recoverable. The second stage would add 300,000 pounds of thrust, or something less than the total power of the largest U.S. missile to date, the Atlas. The third stage would lift the payload into orbit.

As soon as four of the sealed self-sufficient compartments were blasted into orbit, the crew would move in with a rocket designed for assembly work and another designed to return to earth.

The assembly rocket is dubbed by Lockheed scientists, the Astrolog. Its job would be to capture all of the space laboratory compartments as they are fired aloft, and fit them together into the wheel-shaped space laboratory.

Space Station
The Lockheed proposal was presented by Saunders B. Kramer and Richard A. Byers before the fifth annual meeting of the American Astronautical Society of the Woman Killed, Husband Hurt In Collision

Mt. Vernon, Ill. —(U)— A 2-car crash in thick fog Sunday killed Mrs. Eleanor Becker, 68, Stoughton, Wis., and critically injured her husband, George, 68.

Becker was the driver of one of the two autos which met headon three miles south of here on Illinois Route 37.

Serious injuries were suffered by the driver of the other auto, Glenn G. Jetter, 23, Chicago; his wife, Ann, 20, and their son, Mitchell, 3. Two other Jetter children were unhurt.

5 Arkansans Killed in Collision With Truck

Sedan, Kans. —(U)— Five Arkansans, en route home from a holiday visit to Colorado, were killed yesterday when their car and a pickup truck collided on a bridge near here.

Killed were Frank Zitzman, 62; his wife, Jessie, 65; Sloan Rudy, 55; his wife, Mary, 50; and Mrs. Lona O'Bannon, about 80, mother of Mrs. Zitzman. All lived at Imboden, Ark.

The driver of the truck, Virgil Heckathorn of Winfield, Kans., was hospitalized at Coffeyville, where his condition was reported as fair.

Undersheriff C. F. Gibbs said ice on the U. S. Highway 166 bridge may have caused the collision.

The Arkansans had been visiting a stepson of the Zitzmans, Bill Pitts, in Colorado Springs.

No Patients Injured When Fire Starts in Mental Hospital Wing

Topeka, Kans. —(U)— About 200 patients of the Topeka State Mental hospital were removed without injury yesterday after fire broke out in a 70-year-old wing of the building.

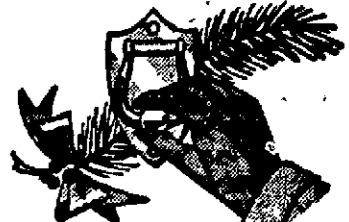

The fire, controlled quickly, apparently started in a clothing room on the first floor of the woodview section. The cause was not known.

Dr. Alfred P. Bay, superintendent, estimated the loss at $15,000 to $20,000.

There are about 1,300 patients in the hospital, including 340 in the 3-story Woodview section.

The displaced patients will be housed temporarily in other sections.

Traders in France Support Economy Plan

tertwined through the French economy.

These included some schemes reminiscent of the U.S. agricultural programs. No longer will France pay farmers to uproot their own apple trees to trim production. The government also will stop paying farmers to plant olive trees.

The postage stamp for an ordinary letter will go up 25 per cent—it will soon cost about five cents for a letter.

All these measures spell higher prices for utilities—coal, gas, electricity.

Altogether, Pinay said the new French budget stripped some 268 billion francs ($545 million) in subsidies from the previous year's figures.

Pinay announced detailed cuts in social security and medical benefits. Pensions of war veterans who are not jobless, disabled or retired were trimmed sharply.

The workers' pay envelopes will also record greater withdrawals for social security. The employers' share will also be increased. These charges already amounted to about one-third of a worker's pay. The new charges will go up a standing of France and West Germany.

The key to the convertibility switch was Britain, because the British pound, as the currency of the vast sterling bloc, buys more than half the goods sold in the world. Britain tried limited convertibility in 1947 but her stock of dollars wasn't sufficient to stand the run. Convertibility was suspended after 37 days.

London's socialist Reynolds News complained that the British still "have not a sufficient reserve of gold and dollars to make this (convertibility) a safe gamble." Sources in Britain's conservative government anticipated no repetition of the 1947 run. Instead, they expected the boost to trade to increase the demand for the pound itself.

New York City Strike Ended

laid off when the plants shut down.

The thunder of giant presses sounded again in block-long press rooms silent many days.

Provisions of Contract

Terms of the agreement were settled by negotiators Friday night.

The new contract gave the deliverers a $3.55 pay increase the first year and $1.75 the second. Benefits included Columbus day off as a ninth paid holiday and three days of sick leave annually, to begin in 1960. Unused sick leave will be paid in wages at the new scale.

The agreement was a revision of the same $7-a-week package spread over two years that they had twice rejected. Instead of going entirely into wages, the $7 will now go $5.30 for wages and $1.70 for the sick leave and Columbus day holiday. Base pay was $103.82 before the strike.

The weight of newspaper bundles was cut from 53 to 50 pounds. The deliverers had originally asked 40.

Provisions Accepted

Barney G. Cameron, president of the Publishers Association of New York City, said "the drivers tonight accepted what they twice earlier rejected. . . ." He said the ernment estimates this will keep the budget deficit to about $1,100,000,000, some $300 million less than it was last year. The loss of subsidies will send prices on those items up.

More spending in Algeria, both for the military campaign against the nationalist rebellion and for the ambitious economic program De Gaulle wants to launch to better the lot of the Moslems.

The little he promised to brighten the dark picture included a raise in the lowest minimum wage levels, and increases in unemployment benefits to bring jobless pay to the minimum wage. There was also indication of improved hospitals, housing and schools.

rejections came in spite of "the advice of their officials." Cameron noted that the papers' editorial employees recently accepted a 2-year contract giving a $4 wage increase the first year and $3 the second.

"The same offer was made repeatedly to the drivers who finally have chosen to accept it in a revised form," he said.

He added that the sick leave "is in addition to benefits provided for some years past under a trust fund which makes generous payments to drivers who are sick or injured."

Asher Schwartz, union attorney, said the new contract would be in effect as of Dec. 7, when the old pact expired. Only retroactivity in the contract provides payment for the time deliverers worked on Dec. 8 and Dec. 9.

After ratification, Sam Feldman, president of the independent Newspaper and Mail Deliverers union, said: "We are now ready to go back to work with the best wages and working conditions ever had by the members of our union."

Asked whether he thought the strike had been worthwhile, Feldman said only that he was happy it was over.

Survey Northern Wisconsin

Gov.-elect Nelson's proposal for a study of the economic resources of northern Wisconsin is not a new idea, but it is still a good one. During the recent campaign both Nelson and Gov. Thomson indicated that they were interested in the development of industry in all sections of Wisconsin and particularly in the north where there appears to be both need and opportunity for such work.

Nelson won the right to try and it is good to know that he is not putting this plan in the background even though he is busy with a great many other things at the moment. The report from Madison is that the governor-elect has been exploring some ideas for the study with economists and other specialists of the University of Wisconsin. It is pretty well agreed, we think, that the tourist trade has done wonders for northern Wisconsin. Now it is time to know how much more can be done in this direction and whether there is any conflict between further development of the tourist business and other forms of industry.

The incoming governor has indicated that he believes the upper Wisconsin counties have other industrial possibilities such as the production of additional mineral and wood products.

It is generally understood that no area can compete in the modern world if it must depend entirely on products of the soil. Agricultural products, forest products and the products of mines represent real wealth but in most cases it is the value added to such products by human endeavor that brings wealth to all members of a community. The business of furnishing services to tourists is a very profitable undertaking and it has the decided advantage of not costing the community anything in the form of its natural resources. On the contrary it tends to add to the value of a community through the construction of homes, hotels, the improvement of lake shores and the construction of parks. Each year through such improvements the area devoted to this industry tends to improve its position and by increasing its services attracts more business. But in most instances a single industry is not enough for any community. The tourist business is seasonal and an area with a large tourist industry needs something else to take up the time of its workers during the winter season.

The governor-elect has acted wisely, we think, in turning to the university for help on this subject. It may be that with a little help from the state the 27 large counties in northern Wisconsin may not only become self-sustaining but may contribute a great deal to the general welfare of the entire state.

The Folly of Factionalism

While the two-party system has been very successful in this country and in a number of others such as Great Britain, it sometimes puts a severe strain on some people. Men's political, economic and social ideas do not fall naturally into two great divisions; human beings are too complex for that, and our society is made up of too many sometimes conflicting segments and groups.

Despite this we have clung to the two-party system because it is the only political system yet devised which makes it possible to place the responsibility for government on an identifiable group. In nations that have not developed two-party systems it has been impossible for the people to fix responsibility on any one of the many parties that exist; this has led to coalition governments, a constant shifting of political loyalties, and a flowering of the natural inclination of politicians to trade votes and duck responsibility.

Once a healthy two-party system is established, however, factionalism generally leads to the defeat of the party that has permitted it, and thus it appears for only brief periods and then disappears under the weight of practical political necessity. We can think of no better example of how this works than Utah's experience in the 1958 general election. Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, who had represented Utah in the Senate since 1946, was up for reelection.

He won the Republican primary decisively over former Gov. J. Bracken Lee, and faced Democrat Frank E. Moss in the general election. Utah has been a strongly Republican state for some years and Sen. Watkins' seat was one of those considered fairly "safe" for the Republicans this year.

But Lee, after losing the primary, refused to be counted out. An extreme right-winger — he has a national reputation chiefly because, while governor, he tried to refuse to pay his income tax on the grounds that some of the money went for foreign aid — he entered the general election as an independent. Obviously, the only votes he could expect to get would be taken away from Sen. Watkins. Thus the only lasting result of Lee's candidacy could be the defeat of the Republican nominee, Watkins.

And that is what happened. Here are the official returns from Utah:

Moss	112,827
Watkins	101,471
Lee	77,013

It is perfectly obvious that Lee, not Moss, defeated Watkins. The Republican votes—those for both Watkins and Lee—total 178,484, in other words there were about three Republican votes for every two Democratic votes. Yet Utah will be represented in the Senate for the next six years by a liberal Democrat because Lee thought he could best serve the cause of conservatism by stabbing the moderate Republican, Watkins, in the back!

Foolish Political Fashions

A prize example of the pathetic obscurantism that plagues our contemporary political vocabulary was offered at the last meeting of the Legislative Council at Madison, preparing interim committee bill drafts for consideration in the new legislature.

One measure, backed by educators, proposed to transfer the responsibility for the management of the state student loan fund from the state department of public welfare to the state department of public instruction.

This is no ordinary bureaucratic competition. The welfare department has run the program satisfactorily for a quarter of a century. There is no quarrel on the record. It is willing enough to continue. The department of public instruction, heavily engaged in its regular duties, hasn't asked for the new power and duty.

The bill was justified, instead, on the claim that there is a "stigma" attached to the welfare department. The poor, proud and sensitive student should not be asked to humble himself by showing that he really needs a loan. He should not be seen entering the disreputable precincts of the welfare administration. He should be able to get a loan merely because the education department has endorsed his application.

As a bright boy he might, indeed, get some of the interest-free money from the school department and put it out at interest for his own profit, while he lives on his own means or on his father's allowance. No matter. There should be no risk of stigmatizing anyone.

Now it happens that we have known some students whose educational careers were aided considerably, if not altogether determined, by the availability of the student loan fund that dates from the earliest days of the depression of the 1930's. We have never heard a word of complaint from the students who have been helped over more than two decades and a half. We have heard, in fact, no complaints from anybody about the loan fund and the method the legislature chose originally to assure that its purposes would not be abused. Most of the beneficiaries were cheerfully ready to make the showing that was required, and that is required by any credit agency devised by sensible men. The worth of the program is shown, moreover, by the splendid record of repayment over the years.

No more damaging revelation of the liberal mind at work has turned up in our state affairs for a long time. Remove the guards from the state treasury! Open the gates! Everybody should have a piece of the public purse, whether he needs it or not. Of all the baleful sins, let us not "stigmatize."

The Telephone Could be Improved

The telephone is one of the most useful instruments available to civilized man. Many improvements have been made on it in the last half century but these improvements have made it as useful for harm as for good. It is frequently used by the lawbreaker, like the kidnaper, and now it is the choice of teenagers who want to frighten their elders out of their wits by starting false bomb scares. Thus the telephone brings information but there is no assurance that the receiver of the information will know whether it is reliable or whence it came.

In recent years we have heard that the telephone company is on the verge of attaching television to the telephone so that the person receiving the call may know who is calling, or at least may see a picture of the person calling if he so desires. That would certainly be an improvement but it apparently would be a matter of considerable expense. In the present bomb scare crisis it would be a matter of great convenience if any persons receiving a telephone call could, by pressing a button or otherwise activating an electric circuit, ascertain by mechanical means the number and the location of the phone being used to make the call. In nine cases out of 10 that would be sufficient information to put the police on the track of the culprit who might be using the phone for illegal purposes. In this day when a simple 10-cent telephone call can put an airline or a city government to thousands of dollars of additional expense and bring fear and trouble to thousands of people, it would appear that some thought should be given to making this improvement on the telephone.

'Why Not a Year-Round Christmas Tree, Neighbor?'

What Others are Saying

Ike Should Take Stand Against Inflation; People Will Approve

From The Arizona Daily Star

The November elections have made certain that an overwhelmingly Democratic Congress will convene in Washington in January. At the same time the Republican administration led by President Eisenhower will be deciding how it will finance a prospective $12 billion deficit for the current year ending June 30.

It also will have to present a budget for the fiscal year of 1959-60, which definitely will call for larger expenditures than the present one. It already has announced hopes that increased revenue will reduce the deficit for that year to $5 billion, and a nearly balanced budget for the subsequent year of 1960-61.

This serious prospect, which a Democratic Congress can make increasingly dangerous by increased expenditures, already has begun to affect the financing of governmental operations through new money that must be borrowed during the current six months. During the calendar year 1959, the U.S. Treasury has a maturing debt of $82,865,407,810. To this total must be added the regular monthly deficits of not less than $1 billion.

The question of how these deficits are to be financed—who is going to buy government bonds and securities—poses a problem that has to be met immediately. Already the Treasury has borrowed against the big tax income of the first six months of the year. It is in the position of a person who cannot borrow from the banks or other investors any more, and who now has hocked his regular pay. The result is that the flight from bonds into equities of the stock market and real estate has already begun.

Neither banks nor insurance companies will buy additional long term government security issues save at higher and higher interest rates. Neither the public nor other savers can be counted upon to help out. Why should they? They have seen the purchasing power of the dollar shrink more than any interest they have received on what they hold today. They have been told for the past year and are being told today that we are in for a cycle of inflation and a depreciation of the value of the dollar. The steady outflow of gold helps to confirm the fear. When the people, the banks, the insurance companies and other investors refuse to loan their savings to the United States government, our government will be without credit, and will have to resort to what France has had to do since the 1930's.

The Federal Reserve System will have to start buying government securities on a scale sufficient to meet these deficits. The rapidly mounting bank deposits and currency issues this process generates, will create, before the year 1959 is out, the beginning of the very inflation that has been so well advertised.

There still is time to head off this disgraceful and possibly terrible prospect. It will not only require a wise firm financial policy, but a political policy so resolute in its determination to balance the budget, that the confidence of the public is restored. Not until that is done will confidence rise to the point where government securities will once more command the respect and ownership of the public.

Political leadership is if anything much more necessary than financial leadership. At this moment the apparent in the White House, is rapidly becoming more apparent to the entire country. That gaping hole adds to the growing public fright about inflation. President Eisenhower has transformed himself from the position of the nation's chosen political leader into a kind of always-smiling, kindly - speaking monarch who fears to say or do anything that might make him unpopular.

This situation cannot be met by speaking pious platitudes or putting the blame on the Democratic Congress. The man the people look to is the President of the United States. They will follow him if he will lead. If he is to lead he must tell them the truth about the situation the country faces both financially and politically.

This is not a new situation in the records of history, but such records do show that when nations embark on a program of monetary depreciation — particularly in times of peace; and, despite the excuse of the Cold War, we are not engaged in hostilities — it provides a sign of decay from within. That is a much bigger danger than any we face from without. And our continuous pleas for more and more ease and less and less work, for more and more unearned benefits, give an alarming confirmation of this trend.

Because the technical acts that must be imposed are known today, whereas in the older days they were not, there can be no excuse for the President's failure to insist that they be used, and thus give his Secretary of the Treasury the moral as well as the legal support to do what is necessary. Interest rates must be raised high enough to encourage the public as well as financial institutions to invest in U. S. bonds. A good share of the maturing debt should be funded on a long-term basis. It will be cheaper to pay

Under the Capitol Dome
Now GOP Talks About An Army of Workers

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Politicians tend to speak in extravagant terms, and never more audaciously than when they are talking about their party organizations.

The other day GOP Chairman Claude Jasper, emerging from the doleful post-mortem session of the state Republican committee, calmly informed reporters higher interest than pay what rising prices otherwise would cost. Such a program would mop up a lot of surplus purchasing power.

Raising federal interest rates to make U. S. bonds more attractive would violate no standing policy of this government nor of common sense. During World War I the federal government had no hesitancy in paying 4 1/2 and even 4 1/2 per cent interest on bonds.

The President should call upon the people to support financially and politically a program of austerity. Taxes should be increased, not lowered. New taxes should be extended to luxuries. If we are going to create enough wealth to support the gigantic armament and social welfare program that prevails today, more wealth must be created. More work must be done. The people, and that includes labor and industry, must end the inflation spiral of wages chasing prices, and prices chasing wages. That means wage and salary increases based on the cost of living must be brought to an end, and not be allowed to exceed increased productivity. Corporate taxes should be hiked, while a direct tax on dividends should be imposed.

The President must present a program for the final two years of his term that makes reasonably certain a balanced budget for the year 1960-61. Short of this, confidence cannot be restored to the point that can make the financing of the current budget a success.

This is the job the President must perform, if he is to escape the stigma of being the architect of what can develop easily into a cycle of historic inflation which will undermine the moral strength that always has been our salvation, as well as our financial strength. There is more danger from our constantly mounting desires for luxuries and ease than from our enemies from without.

The President has to rise up as the leader of the American people, and call upon them for sacrifices, rather than promising additional ease and unearned benefits. The American people will respond if he will only make the task clear and compelling.

It is his only hope to balance the office of the Chief Executive with the overwhelmingly Democratic Congress. The members of the Democratic party could set an historic precedent by responding to the call of the President of the United States, when he rises to exert a leadership at a time when the destiny of the country is at stake.

that the committee had endorsed his plan to increase the corps of working local Republicans by 25,000 during the next two years in preparation for the next contest with the Democrats. He thought the party probably had about 10,000 workers during the last and unsuccessful campaign.

There is no intention here to disparage Chairman Jasper. He merely spoke the language of his trade. But it must be clear to anyone with the slightest understanding of the realities of Wisconsin political life that such numbers of "workers" are unattainable. This is propaganda designed to scare the opposition — but of such obvious foolishness that it probably missed its mark.

THE DEMS

The Democrats have been talking in comparably absurd terms for years. It is one of the favorite speech devices of Democratic Chairman Patrick Lucey. Yet two years after Lucey's admittedly hard efforts, and in a promising year, the Democrats can today boast no more than 15,000 workers in this state.

Jasper's formula would be the equivalent of one to 18 or 20 Republican voters, or about one to 100 of the general population of Wisconsin.

The unreality of the plan is suggested, for one thing, by history. No political party in this reporter's experience has been able in Wisconsin to achieve that one worker per precinct which is the ideal envisioned by the laws governing the political parties as statutory entities. No party, in spite of sporadically extreme campaigns, has ever been able to boast a full complement of precinct committeemen.

The observer can test the practicability of such a goal by applying it to a community with which he is familiar, such as his home town. This correspondent's home town by Jasper's blue-print will have 40 active, working, recognized politicians who will do their bit for the Grand Old Party in campaign seasons. Yet there is serious doubt that the reincarnation of Mark Hanna would draw a crowd of 40 there.

All this is mechanics, aside from the spiritual or philosophical motivations that are involved in recruiting the working faithful in a party.

Generally partisans have ideals — however much they may dispute each other in campaign time. There are Democrats as zealous about their ideas as are Republicans, and vice versa. Yet it may be fairly said that there probably are more Democrats directly interested in governmental boons — which ought to make it easier for them to recruit a working machine.

INCENTIVE

The Milwaukee union business agent who is the hard core of the party machine there is more directly interested in legislation and governmental policy, in material terms, than is the village lawyer or the suburban housewife who typifies the Republican machine.

It is perfectly obvious also that the farmer who equates his living with governmental subsidies is probably a stronger partisan than the city salesman or merchant or other entrepreneur.

Finally, Mr. Jasper is going to have to devise an incentive to enlist that vast army of Republican enthusiasts of which he dreams.

This disillusion about the GOP's uncertain and often contradictory positions, personalities and performance is probably a poor gruel with which to feed the recruiting drive.

Fire Destroys Flouring Mill

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Jan. 3, 1980.

The flouring mill of Ira P. Clark was destroyed by fire this morning. The mill with its entire contents is a total loss and was not insured.

The building took fire on the east side and was first discovered by the family of F. Ohde. It spread so rapidly that nothing could be saved, the mill books being burned with everything else in the mill. Besides the mill, 150 bushels of wheat and 250 bushels of seed stored there and 150 bushels of wheat belonging to farmers were lost.

The mill was worth $5,000 and the belief is that its destruction was the work of an incendiary. Mr. Clark already has begun the work of rebuilding.

Division Seen in Old, Modern GOP

But White Notes Old Guard Has The Troops in New Congress

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE
Washington — The senate Republicans are in extraordinary disarray, as in anxiety and almost panic they await the opening of the new congress.

At every hand are evidences of division between the orthodox, old-line Republicans and the liberal or modern Republicans—who by and large have significantly stopped calling themselves Eisenhower Republicans.

The liberals are demanding a louder voice in the senate Republican leadership, where they have not had any real voice at all in half a generation. There is a good deal of marching and counter-marching in this campaign of rebellion, and its total hopes and intentions are hardly clear yet.

At minimum, however, it seems to involve a fairly determined challenge to Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, the prospective senate GOP leader in succession to former Sen. William Knowland of California. It does not, however, seem to contemplate any general challenge at all to the GOP powerhouse on the old guard side, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire.

To put in an attack on Republican old guard direction of the party without firing a shot at Bridges is like attacking an enemy division while carefully avoiding any hostile action against an enemy army.

If, in short, the liberals were able to push Dirksen aside—and this is most unlikely—they would have accomplished little in any practical way. For Bridges, as chairman of the senate GOP policy committee, will be the real Republican leader next time, no matter who holds that title and no matter how successful may seem any liberal "revolt."

This is so because the essential power in what is left of the Republican party in the senate is in the hands of orthodox Republicans, of whom Bridges is unchallenged leader. And it is so because a strong chairman of "policy"

A Life-Sized Sleigh, Carrying Santa and pulled by a horse decorates the lawn of the Mrs. Caroline Overesch home at 137 W. Foster street. can always dominate a nominal floor leader, as the late Sen. Robert A. Taft so well proved a decade ago. The moderns thus have much the stronger case in logic, for the lesson of the November congressional election returns could not have been plainer. This was that the Republican party will win no contests by returning to yesterday. The moderns have clearly read this lesson; they are in fear for the whole future of the party unless it alters its tone at the top. But logic does not always prevail in political affairs. The moderns have far the better argument; but the old guard has many more troops, and far more veteran troops. Moreover, what might be called the Bridges position has been immeasurably strengthened by President Eisenhower himself.

Mr. Eisenhower in the congressional campaign became progressively more nearly a traditional than a modern Republican.

The author of Eisenhower Republicanism himself, in effect, abandoned that identification. And now, in his budget message, he has wholly adopted the old-fashioned Republicanism that so long has stood in direct opposition to his views. This $77-billion budget may or may not be sound economics. But it cannot possibly permit the Republicans to do the things in public welfare which the moderns will feel absolutely necessary unless the election disasters of 1958 are to be capped by election catastrophes in 1960.

Heart of Matter
A president's budget message is at any time the true heart of the matter; this is the real expression of presidential philosophy and presidential purpose. Money, in this as in other languages, speaks louder than many, many words. Everybody who is not a romantic knows that the man who stands at the cash register—where the money goes out as well as comes in—is really the man in control. Perhaps this is said, but it is so.

And it is orthodox Republicanism that stands at the cash register now—stands, that is, at the point of ultimate decision over Republican policy. Thus the Republican liberals will not save their party or themselves by gallant sorties for or against individuals in the lesser senate leadership posts. They will save themselves, if at all, by joining the Democrats in a massive push to take the budget away from the president and the orthodox Republicans. This is the crisis—and not whether Smith or Jones or Brown is to be called a floor leader, an assistant floor leader, or what not.

2 Get Patent On Snow Plow

Machine Being Manufactured by Little Chute Firm

Two Fox Cities men have received a patent for a hand snow plow and the machine is being manufactured by Essential Products corporation, Little Chute.

The plow was devised by Herbert C. Stanelle, 719 E. Marquette street, a machinist, and Harold F. Steinbach, Kaukauna, a layout man. Both men are employed at Kaukauna Machine and Foundry division of Giddings' and Lewis Machine Tool company.

The snow plow has been on the market for about two years and is sold at stores in the Fox Cities area and at a chain department store throughout Wisconsin and Illinois.

Remodeled This Year
Remodeled this year, the plow rolls snow to one side instead of pushing it, Steinbach says. It plows a 24-inch wide path and can be adjusted for wet or dry snow. The plow weighs between 18 and 20 pounds and has a frame about two feet long mounted on a pair of wheels. It simplifies shoveling, Steinbach says, saves time and is "easy on the heart for older people."

Little Known About World's Crop of Rice

90 Per Cent of Total Output Comes From Asia

United Nations, N.Y. — (AP)

Rice may be the main diet of about half the world's population, but UN food and health officials know less about it than any other major crop.

About 95 countries grow rice. Asia produces more than 90 per cent of the annual world output of 190 million tons. And some 70 million tons of this is grown behind the bamboo curtain.

John Drake of the food and agricultural organization says rice is more of a subsistence crop than any other in the world. Less than half the total yield in Asia ever reaches any market.

Eaten On Farms
The bulk of the cereal is eaten on the farms where it is grown, or is bartered between neighbors — leaving statisti-clans in the dark as to what is going on.

There isn't even a glossary for the different types of rice. It's difficult to provide a precise description to a distant buyer. In most deals, samples of the actual grain must be sent by mail.

This lack of data has hampered scientists and agricultural experts trying to better conditions in underdeveloped far eastern lands.

Isolated tests showed them that the health of 800,000 Asians could be improved vastly by raising the nutritional quality of their rice diet. The project would cost less than $1 a person per year.

Vitamins Removed
Rice is a rich, natural source of vitamin B-1, but this vitamin and others of the B-Complex family are removed in polishing the cereal.

Deficiency of B-1 leads to beri-beri, a disease that fells tens of thousands in the rice-eating countries.

Scientists have produced dramatic results by increasing the nutritive value of rice in small sectors, but they have had a frustrating time trying to combat beri-beri throughout the Asian rice bowl.

Democrats Plan Party Newspaper

Success of Victory Dinner Jan. 5 to Determine Project

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Democratic state organization officials hope to arrange the financing of a weekly tabloid party newspaper as a campaign tool in preparation for the vote drives of 1960.

Patrick J. Lucey, chairman of the party's state committee, says the success of the statewide Victory banquet to be held here on the evening of the Jan. 5 inaugural of new Democratic state officials will determine whether such a publishing project is feasible. He said a tentative financial budget for the publication already has been worked out.

The party faithful will pay $25 each for tickets to the Jan. 5 event. Attendance of about 1,000 is expected.

Monthly Organ

The party for the last six years has produced a small-letter-size monthly publication of four pages. It is circulated to party duespayers who now number about 15,000.

Political parties usually desire such organs for efficient communication between organization commanders and party office-holders and the working faithful in the precincts, but most of them have found the costs prohibitive.

Republicans even in the years of their prosperity in Wisconsin found themselves unable to keep such periodicals alive. The last successful party newspaper was that produced by the La Follette Progressives. It expired nearly 20 years ago.

(The Progressive, in monthly magazine format, survives today and is observing its 50th anniversary year. It was founded by the late Sen. Robert M. La Follette, Sr., in 1908, and was for many years a key instrument of the long dominant La Follette political faction.)

Proxmire Sees Little Hope of Less Strength For Southern Democrats

Milwaukee —(U)— Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said Sunday he sees little hope of the 1959 session of congress changing the system under which southern Democrats dominate committee chairmanships in the U.S. Senate.

Proxmire gave his opinion in a local television interview during which he expressed dissatisfaction with the southerners' hold on the chairmanships.

Wisconsin's junior senator said he would like to see greater diversification among the committees, with no section of the nation holding a big percentage of the chairmanships.

Victory Hard To Believe, Maier Says

Democratic Leader In State Senate Tells Party Plans

Maier — A leader of Wisconsin Democrats has confessed that he finds his party's new majority position and prosperity hard to believe.

The Republican rout in the elections last month was not altogether expected by Democrats.

Sen. Henry W. Maier, Milwaukee, suggests in the party's official bulletin here. Maier was floorleader of the Democratic senate minority in the last two legislatures and will be returned to that place by his colleagues when the 1959 legislature convenes Jan. 14.

"We were so long in oblivion in state government that our new situation seems only vaguely believable," he told fellow-subscribers of the party's publicity organ.

Not Without Fault

(Democrats swept into control of the state assembly and executive department in the fall elections. They increased their seats in the senate, but continue as a minority there.)

Maier told of party plans, as he sees them.

"We do not expect to run the government without fault, but we hope to demonstrate that it is better to have a government that lives in a spirit of progress rather than an athletic government of consistent omissions," he said.

"We believe that government should be operated in a business-like manner, but not on a business basis—government should be humanitarian," he said.

Will Follow Platform

Maier said some pledged reforms, such as revision of election laws, will probably be on a patch-work basis, pending complete studies by the legislative council.

He also said the other party patterns stand well-defined in the party's campaign platforms.

"We intend to be faithful in the execution of those promises; the cynics about party platforms are in for a surprise," he said.

State Board Finds Evidence Linking Smoking, Cancer

Madison —(U)— In its first official comment on cigaret smoking and lung cancer, the Wisconsin Board of Health said Saturday there is increasing evidence linking the two.

Dr. Arthur L. Van Duser, director of the cancer control division, authored a report published in the current issue of the Wisconsin Medical Journal.

"Apparently there are no acceptable studies in medical literature which show no relationship between cigaret smoking and lung cancer," Dr. Van Duser's report stated.

The report added the prevention of lung cancer appeared to offer the best hope of control.

From 1930 to 1957, the report said, the death rate from lung cancer increased from 3.1 per cent per 100,000 persons to 15 per 100,000.

Dr. Van Duser said the risk of nonsmokers developing the commonest type of lung cancer is 1 in 270. Smokers of two or more packs a day face a 1 in 10 gamble.

Communism Application Changes Radically to Fit Each Economy

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

Not long ago a leading Polish journalist was invited to give a lecture in the Soviet Union. His subject was the development of communism in Poland, and after dealing with the socialization in the industrial areas he began to describe what had been done in agriculture. There, he explained, the land was for the most part owned and worked by peasant proprietors. When he had finished, there were questions from his audience, and he was promptly attacked on the ground that Polish policy in agriculture is reactionary and anti-communist. He was, it soon appeared, a quick-witted fellow. For his answer was that the Polish agricultural system is indeed reactionary from the point of view of communism. But the Polish government has no choice about it. The peasants will not tolerate anything but private property in their own land. They will not stand for a system of collectivization which deprives them of their property. Then, when the audience was digesting this frank statement he added: "You see, our Polish peasants would resist the setting up of your system of collectivism just as your farmers would resist the introduction of the new Chinese system of the communes." This was a clincher, and there were no more denunciations from the floor of Poland's reactionary ways. Details Vary I was told this story by a Pole who is high in the councils of his government, and he had had the story directly from the journalist. It is a significant story, I think, because it illustrates a great truth about the communist doctrine. It is that however uniform and standardized may be the theoretical generalities, in real life the application of communism varies. They have very powerful governments which rest not on country from one time to another. Thus in the Soviet Union, it is the current fashion to invoke the name of Lenin as if the social order which has developed in the past 40 years had been foreseen by Lenin and its working principles prophetically revealed by Lenin. This is, of course, mere mythology; not unlike the claims of primitive kings that they are descendants of the gods. The existing Soviet social order is the product of trial and error. The process of trial and error is continuing, and there is no such thing as a finished blueprint of a communist society which can be used in Poland and in China, in Albania and in Czechoslovakia, much less in Western Europe and North America. Future-Based Hope What is common to all the countries which fall, which are pushed or are pulled, into the communist orbit is this. They have very powerful governments which rest not on elections and the consent of the governed but on their proclamation of their own right and their own capacity to shape the future. On this implied contract—which is the implied contract in all revolutionary movements—on this contract to raise the standard of life and to make a powerful society, the totalitarian state demands and obtains not only the passive acceptance but the active collaboration of large masses of the people. I was very much impressed with a Soviet woman who told me that while the flat she now lives in is overcrowded and uncomfortable, her family are going to have a very good flat in 1963. It is plain enough, I think, that once a revolutionary movement has passed the phase of liquidating the old regime, what it can do after that will be determined by the kind of country it is dealing with. Russia was a backward country forty years ago, but it was backward only as compared with Germany or England, not as compared with China or Indonesia or Iraq. For the old Russia contained the essential elements of modern technological development and the skeleton of an administrative system to operate a large and complex society. China is far poorer in these essential elements, and far poorer, of course, in the fundamental capital structure of its economy. When we think of the terrible price paid by the Soviet people in order to overcome their own backwardness and the devastation of war, it is horrifying to think of the price the Chinese people may now have to pay. In Russia, at least among the minority who know what is going on elsewhere, there is, so it seems to me, great awe, compounded of fascination and fear, as to what the Chinese equivalent of Stalinism—of forced development and capital formation—is going to be. CHILDREN IN THE TEMPLE

"And when the chief priests and the scribes saw the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and saying, Hosanna to the son of David; they were sore displeased."

—Matthew 21:15

Calm Spring was warm in the sun's first touch, as the bright glory of that Sabbath lay over Jerusalem. On the distant green hills, random groupings of flowers had appeared, like thoughts of a dreaming mind lost in reverie.

Down the narrow, winding lanes of the Holy City, a Man with a face of kindness, but sad eyes, had come riding on a donkey. Scores of people lined His way, straining for a better look at Him who, it was said, was the Messiah.

Many of them had cut palm branches and boughs of myrtle, which they waved in salutation. And the children, laughing joyously at being recognized, had thrown flowers before Him.

"Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord!" cried the crowd. "Peace in heaven and glory to the highest!"

The Pharisees, outraged at this greeting, had made trumpets of their hands and shouted for the Master to rebuke His followers.

Without stopping, He answered them: "I tell you that if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out."

So He had gone on to the Temple, that great house of God on the sacred hilltop, its magnificent white colonnades bright in the sunlight. As He entered, His ears were assaulted not by the sounds of men at prayer, as belittled a Temple, but by the din of a marketplace.

There were loud cries of the vendors—those who sold doves, those who bought and sold all kinds of merchandise, and those who exchanged foreign money for coins used in Jerusalem.

Resolutely, Jesus walked among them, "and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple; and overthrew the tables of the money-changers."

For a moment there was an awed silence. Then some children broke forth with cries of "Hosanna to the son of David!"

"Hearst thou what these say," the disgruntled priests asked.

"Yea," Jesus replied, "have ye never read, Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise?"

And He left them and went out of the city.

People Should Fill Later Years Of Life With Activity, Usefulness

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — They're letting me out of this place and I go with good cheer. It has been a curious experience, for whereas many of my friends particularly those in this exciting profession, have had a heart attack of one kind or another, few have, suddenly and without even the warning of a pain, been confronted by a cancer and have had to face all the consequences of that. And death, too.

Tradition eats at the vitals. At no stage of this difficulty, from the accidental discovery to the recovery, was I lied to or confused by ambiguous language. The surgeon, a stranger to me, I am told, is one of the greats of the world. I say, I am told, for I know nothing about this or that surgeon, but I know a man who looks you square in the eye and tells you what he has to do. And my surgeon was such a man.

But the word, cancer, the phrase, a malignancy, does frighten. It is difficult to believe that one can lose an organ. It is difficult to believe that one can survive at all. But we do survive. That is the miracle. It is God's miracle. For the combination of accidents that brings one to the point of surgery, each accident a warning and an aid, seems to be like a destiny leading to that moment when with half one's blood supply gone, with a vital organ gone, one lies in bed, days lost, to open one's eyes and ask, what time is it?

What time? What day? What week? It no longer matters, for even the years are details of existence. The fact is that one breathes and is restless again and waits for a sip of water to parched lips. The unbelievable is again believable; life is still here.

Borrowed Time

What does one do with borrowed time. My friend, Bernard Baruch is going on 90 and the years have been good to him but he gives those years to service as best he knows how because he recognizes

Hollow Victory For Racine Thief

Racine — The thief who smashed a display window at the Sanitary Meat Market got a hollow victory.

Missing was a container of canned ham, but the proprietor told police the missing can, like the others in the window, was empty.

that his allotment has been plentiful. So it is with Herbert Hoover who, almost under emotional compulsion, is turning out his histories, one upon the other, not to earn revenue, which he does not need, but to fill the years of his old age with usefulness.

It is so easy to sit back and give up. The man whose heart has grown tired may believe that total inactivity will help him. I have come out of this terrible ordeal with a heart stronger and in better condition than it was two years ago when I was ill. The body does respond to the will. The will to be useless, to do nothing, to sit about and complain, to try the patience of a family, to will to live the invalid must have a debilitating effect upon the body. The will to continue to do what one can, as much as one can, perhaps not as much at 65 as at 25, but enough to satisfy the ego, the inner self, that the parting of the ways has been postponed, that exercise of will acts like a tonic and gives the body new strength and new power.

And so, today I go home from here where I have been treated kindly and sternly and my life was saved by drastic, even dramatic means. And when it is over, one wants to go home. That is the test of well-being, of good health, of returning vigor and strength.

Road Toll Down In November

Fewer Fatalities In Month Than in Any Year Since '48

Although 74 traffic deaths were recorded in Wisconsin during November, it was the lowest number of auto fatalities for that month since 1948, the motor vehicle department reports.

November was the fifth straight month in 1958 to show a reduction in deaths, compared with the same month last year. Out of the first 11 months this year, eight have shown decreases in fatalities. The only months showing increases were April, May and June.

Outagamie county's November record was free from fatalities this year and last. During the first 11 months of this year 15 persons died on county roads and city streets, three less than the 18 through November, 1957.

Other county totals in this area are Brown, 21 this year, 27 in 1957; Calumet, six in both years; Shawano, 18 this year, 21 last; Waupaca, three this year, five last; and Winnebago, 17 in both years.

In the first 11 months this year, traffic accidents in Wisconsin brought death to 747 persons, including 116 pedestrians. In the corresponding period last year, total fatalities reached a mark of 835, including 110 pedestrians.

Records show 83.6 per cent of this year's deaths occurred on rural highways. More pedestrians also have been killed on rural roads than on city streets.

On rural highways, Sunday has been the worst day for accidents. On city streets, Friday has been the worst day.

Christmas Tree Makes Excellent Bird Feeder

Don't throw the Christmas tree away! When the job of cleaning up fallen needles gets to be too much for you, enjoy the tree just as much by moving it from the living room to the yard—after you fill it with goodies for the birds.

What should go on your birds' Christmas tree? A good assortment includes popcorn, peanut butter, beef suet and pieces of apple. Popcorn especially lends itself to many interesting forms, from a simple string to a clever bird cage, and you'll have great fun making popcorn ornaments as a family project.

When you set up your birds' tree, tie it to something steady such as a post, fence or another tree so it won't be knocked over by the wind or neighborhood cats and dogs. Put the food where the birds can reach it from a perch since most of them can't eat and fly at the same time.

Don't be disappointed if birds do not flock to your tree right away. They will want to watch it for a time to see if it is safe. The closer it is to other bushes or trees, the better they will like it.

The important thing is to keep the feeding up all winter, since food is very hard for birds to find in cold weather and they will come to depend upon you until spring.

Use a sharp needle and nylon thread or dental floss to string popcorn. No matter how many strings you make, the birds will clamor for more so there is no limit to the number you can put on the tree. Let a few strings dangle across the tree, but weave most of them around and around the branches and the trunk so that the birds will have solid support while eating.

Popcorn Star

Draw a star on a piece of heavy cardboard and cut it out. Take a piece of heavy wire or part of a coat hanger and bend it into a thin U-shape. Tape the rounded end firmly to the star so that you can use the open ends to fasten it to the top branch.

Cover both sides of the star with a thick coating of peanut butter, then with popcorn. Press the popcorn firmly into the peanut butter. Put in cold place to set the peanut butter "glue."

This same bird food recipe may be used for other serving shapes, such as a stocking, bell or tree. An ice cream cone with a pointed end is used for the bell shape. The outside is covered with a thick coating of peanut butter, then the popcorn is pressed in. A pipe cleaner may be used for a bell hanger. The other shapes are cut from cardboard and coated according to the star directions. Cut two round disks three inches in diameter out of heavy cardboard. Lay disks together and punch from four to six small holes near the edge of both. Cut yarn or dental floss in 4-inch lengths—one for each hole in one disk. Thread popcorn onto the dental floss, leaving one-half inch at each end empty. Insert one end through the hole in one disk and tie a knot, and the other end through the corresponding hole in the other disk and knot.

Follow the same procedure for each hole. These are the bars of the bird cage. Now spread a thick layer of peanut butter on the exposed sides of both the top and bottom disks and press popcorn into it. Insert pipe cleaner in the top for hanger. Put in cool place to firm.

Recent Research on Control of Weight

If you have inherited a tendency to gain weight, there is news in a report of research devoted to your problems.

Studies of genetically fat animals reveal that, when weight was controlled, these animals lived longer than those which could eat as they would without gaining.

Researchers suggest that the way to a longer life is a 2-step process: First, the prone-to-be-heavy person must find the weight at which he performs best. Once this ideal weight is found he must hold to it, even

Youngsters Need Good Breakfast

Research, including work done by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, shows that youngsters are less irritable, have fewer headaches, and get through their daily activities best when they eat well-balanced breakfasts.

A good protein breakfast reduces nervousness and inefficiency, especially in the late morning hours. It provides for greater stability of output, results in fewer work and play accidents, and reduces indecisiveness.

The proteins of eggs have the highest biological value of all known proteins. In fact, egg proteins are the common reference used by research scientists to compare values of other proteins. Eggs also are an exceptionally good source of iron, vitamin A, thiamin, riboflavin, and vitamin D, as well as other vitamins and minerals needed so much by teenagers. Also, eggs are low in total calories.

Tempt New Year Visitors With Festive Fruit Cake

BY FRANK KOHLER
Festive Fruit Cake—and no baking to this one, either. Mrs. Homer Smith, Tacoma, Wash., sent this along. Use a tube or loaf pan that will hold six cups. Line it with waxed paper.

- Festive Fruit Cake
3 cup evaporated milk.
3 cups miniature marshmallows (or 34 large ones, cut fine.)
1/3 cup rum, brandy or orange juice.
6 cups crushed graham cracker crumbs.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
1/2 cup dark seedless raisins.
1/2 cup light seedless raisins.
1/2 cup fine cut dates.
1-1/2 cups fine cut candied fruit.
1 cup broken walnuts (we like the black ones here).
Combine milk, marshmallows and liquor or orange juice and let stand 30 minutes. Put remaining ingredients in a large bowl and mix well, then mix in the milk mixture. Mix with a spoon and then with the hands until all crumbs are moistened.

Pack the mixture firmly into the waxed paper lined pan. Top may be decorated with additional whole nuts and candied fruit. Refrigerate for not less than two days before using. Keep in refrigerator. This makes about three and one-half pounds of fruit cake.

Black Beans Demarara
There's something about these, on a cold Sunday evening, along with a fine ham, that really hits the spot at our house.

- 1 pound black beans.
Bouquet Garni of parsley, bay leaf, thyme and celery top.
2 cloves garlic, pressed.
1 large onion, chopped.
1 large carrot, grated.
3 stalks celery, chopped.
Salt and black pepper.
3 cup butter.
Dark rum (Demarara or Jamaican).
Soured cream (optional).
Pick over the beans, and soak overnight in cold water to cover. In the morning, add to the pot the bouquet, (if you haven't a sprig of thyme use one-half teaspoon pulverized dried thyme), the garlic and vegetables and salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer until beans are almost tender.
Transfer contents of the kettle to a bean pot or casserole. Add butter and two ounces of rum. Cover and bake at 350 degrees until beans are very tender. Time is determined by the beans—so you'll have to try them from time to time. When cooked, stir in an additional ounce or so of rum.

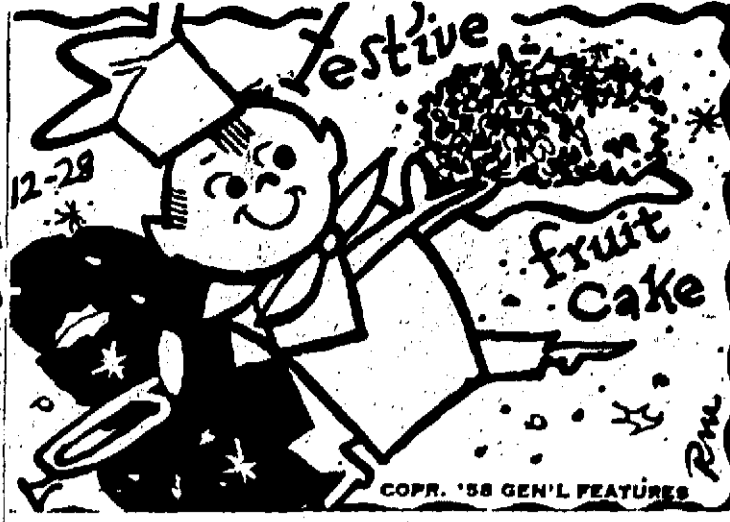

Eggnog Pudding
Combine one-fourth cup chopped, candied red and green cherries with three cups of 1-inch cubes of bakers' pound cake. Arrange in an 8-inch greased ring mold. Combine three slightly-beaten eggs, one and one-half cups dairy eggnog, one cup milk, and one-half teaspoon salt. Pour over cake cubes. Set ring mold into a pan, partially filled with hot water and bake in a 350-degree oven for one hour, or until set. Unmold and cool to room temperature. Serve with whipped cream.

Mince Pie Baked In Quilted Foil
Mince pie is always a favorite dessert. This unusual version, made with quilted foil, is rich and delicious. It is also easy to make and attractive to serve.
Wintertime Pie
Pastry for 9-inch pie shell (In making pastry for this pie, substitute 1 to 2 tablespoons lemon juice for liquid of recipe).
Quilted heavyweight foil 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
6 tablespoons dry sherry
2 tablespoons rum or brandy
1 1/2 cups mincemeat
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cups sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Roll out pastry on a 14-inch square of quilted foil, about 1/4-inch thick and 10 1/2-inches round. When quilted foil is used, pie crust does not stick, and no flour is necessary. Lift foil and pastry round together and place in pie plate. Press gently to fit, then trim off corners of foil. Flute edge of pastry. Prick bottom and sides of pastry with fork. Bake in a 450-degree oven about 13 minutes. Cool.

Soften gelatin in combined sherry and rum. Heat mincemeat thoroughly in double boiler over hot water until suet in mincemeat is melted. Stir in softened gelatin. Cool this mixture thoroughly, stirring occasionally. Beat egg whites until quite stiff, then gradually add sugar, one tablespoon at a time, continuing to beat until sugar is dissolving.

Sardine Toasties
Quick and tasty canapés for your next party are Sardine Cheese Toasties. Toast several slices of bread on both sides. Trim crust and cut into strips. Spread toast with butter and top with a strip of American cheese cut to fit. Put a drained sardine on top of each and sprinkle sardine with lemon juice. Broil until cheese begins to melt.

Attic Theater's 'Golden River' Shows Children Wonderful Time

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One of the merriest traditions imported from Merrie England is the Christmas diversion. The Attic Theatre has staged John Ruskin's "The King of the Golden River" as the Fox Cities children's chance to participate in this hoary tradition.

The Margery Evernden dramatization of the conservation and morality allegory is splendidly mounted in the band box stage at Jefferson school. The opening Saturday afternoon, however, failed to draw more than a handful of spectators, albeit enthralled ones.

The story, fitting for the occasion, is simple and magical. Two mean men, living in a valley of plenty and enslaving a younger brother—ala Cinderella, gouge the villagers and win for themselves the reputation of being black hearted.

Refuse Shelter
When they refuse to shelter three visitors in a storm, all of their wealth and fertile land is removed by one of the visitors, the wonderfully arrogant Southwest Wind, Esq.

In dire straits, they are tricked into releasing the king of the Golden River from a spell and he lets them know how three drops of pure water at the source of the Golden River will turn it into a stream of real gold. The penalty for putting impure water in the river is to be turned into black stones.

The three brothers climb a truly magical mountain to the source. The two mean ones fail tests of compassion on the way, making their water impure and they pay the penalty.

Gold of Fertility
Their brother shows compassion and finds that the gold of the river is the fertility it can return to the valley when it changes its course.

There are no sub-plots, character analysis and a minimum of suspense, but the youngsters, carried away to a land of make-believe where people wear beautiful costumes and rocks sprout trees and flowers, ate it up and had a wonderful time.

The major roles were handled in a fine way. Standouts were the mean brothers, Tom Destelle, sallow and mean in a Cassius thin style, and Joe Lewandowski, full-blown and a fully-bearded rogue; the younger brother, Nate Cloak, optimistic and gentle; the southwest wind, Jim Miller, wonderfully stylized; and the king, Charles Cary, impressively majestic.

Sharp Tongued Shrew
The women in the cast, with the exception of Deany Beale, as a wronged shrew with a sharp tongue and a fine sense of righteous indignation, played their roles gently sugar coated. They are Marie Frank and Linda Schoenberg, as the magical woman and girl.

As superfluous, although impressive prologue heralds, were Kathy Hoefel and Maurice Stack. Stack designed the show delightfully. The two sets, the brothers' kitchen, dominated by a fireplace and a turning spit, and the magic mountain, overcame the limitations of the stage. The brilliant and imaginative costuming complimented the setting perfectly.

Mrs. Theodore Cloak directed the piece with a fine sense of whimsy and her cast responded well. The production is a jewel worthy of full-house patronage.

The youngsters have four more chances to travel to never-never land at Jefferson school at 2 and 8 p.m. next Saturday and Sunday.

Democrats Blame GOP for Fiscal Woes

Party Paper Tells How They Hope to Handle Problems

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Democratic party organization publicity is being keyed to reduce the political impact of Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson's impending fiscal troubles.

The current edition of "The Wisconsin Democrat," official organ of the state Democratic party draws a doleful picture of the financial problems with which the forthcoming Democratic state regime must contend.

But the responsibility is really that of the Republicans, who have held office for the last two decades, the party faithful are told. The "Democrat" goes to 15,000 dues-paying subscribers.

The publicity organ tells about a "bare cupboard," about the "evasive" state debt, about requests for far more spending from all agencies, and the prospect that tax revenues won't rise proportionately because of the "recession."

Then it relates, apparently with authorization, what the new Democratic state administration will do about such matters.

"The Democratic administration will not temporize. A 1-year breather has been asked for to get the state's house in order. During that year the Democratic administration will analyze all state services to help determine which ones are essential to the people of Wisconsin. Then it will support an equitable tax structure to support those services. Many difficult decisions will have to be made. These decisions will not be avoided, but will be made in the open with an opportunity for all interested citizens to participate."

The comments were written by Connie Dolase, new executive secretary at Democratic headquarters who works under the direction of Chairman Patrick J. Lucey.

Michigan Man Says Oswego Not Only Snowy Place

The point is not exactly clear on whether this is bragging or complaining, but a man from Munising, Mich., says Oswego, N. Y., is not the only place besieged with heavy snows. He is A. M. Gelbke, a one-time resident of Appleton.

To prove his point, Gelbke cites an article in the Marquette, Mich., Mining Journal. "Storms continue to belt the Munising area, making Oswego, N. Y., (which has received nation-wide publicity for its snowfall) seem like a veritable paradise."

Gelbke said heavy snowfall in December has set a record for the area, where the normal amount is about 140 inches a year. Happily, he mentioned that the snow removal equipment is excellent in Munising and the roads are generally as good in the winter as in the summer.

Rural Hilbert Man Hits Deer With Car

Chilton—The front end of the car owned by Leon C. Kesler, 45, route 2, Hilbert, was damaged when he struck and killed a deer on Highway 151 about a half mile west of Highway 32 about 5:30 p. m. Friday. Kesler told Sheriff C. J. Kosmosky he slowed to avoid one deer that leaped across the highway but was unable to avoid a second deer that followed the first.

Kim Novak will co-star with Fredric March in the film version of "Middle of the Night," the long-running Broadway stage play.
It's about a middle-aged widower who falls in love with a young girl. Author Pad-day Chayefsky, who got his start in television scripting, will do the motion picture adaptation.
Filming is scheduled to start in New York in January.

Stanley Donen has purchased motion picture rights to "Once More, With Feeling," and will produce and direct it next year in England. He has Yul Brynner signed for the lead role. The play opened recently on Broadway with Joseph Cotten and Arlene Francis as stars.

Jingo's Jewels: Twentieth Century-Fox wants Dick Clark, of TV's "American Bandstand," to play the title role in "The Fred Waring Story" . . . Lou Costello is filming a picture called "The Secret Bride of Candy Rock." It's a spoof of current science-fiction films and features in a small role his daughter, Carole, in her movie debut . . . Eight pictures underway in Hollywood this week have older men co-starred with young girls. They are David Niven and Shirley MacLaine in "Ask Any Girl," James Stewart and Vera Miles in "The FBI Story," Henry Fonda and Dorothy Malone in "War-

Disney's 'Tonka' At Rio Theater on New Year's Eve

"Tonka," the Walt Disney movie which opens at the Rio theater on New Year's eve, is the story of an untamed Mustang and a young Indian warrior who was his greatest friend.

The climax of the film is in the action-packed re-enactment of the heroic and tragic Custer's last stand at Little Big Horn in 1876.

Wild horse stampedes, Indian uprisings, cavalry charges and bitter tribal rivalries all have a part in this Disney production. Woven into this story of wild frontier life of the 1870s is the tender tale of White Bull's love for a wild stallion and his efforts to save the horse from mistreatment.

Sal Mineo plays the role of White Bull. Co-starred with him are Philip Carey, Jerome Courtland, TV's Andy Burnett and Rafael Campos. Supporting players include H.M. Wynant, Joy Page and Britt Lomond.

'Barretts' to Appear In Musical Version
New York — The renowned Victorian romance of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning is about to appear on Broadway's stage again—this time as a musical.
"The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which gave Katharine Cornell one of her greatest acting triumphs, is being transformed by Helen Thomas under the producing aegis of Jean Dailymple.

In the new version, the sponsors report, there is to be less emphasis on the fiercely assertive papa of the original, and more development of other members of the famous family.
Jenn Seberg, Peter Sellers and David Kossoff have signed to play in the English film production of "The Mouse That Roared," the Leonard Whippley best-seller.
Producer-Director Otto Preminger has acquired screen rights to the psychological suspense drama "Bunny Lake Is Missing" and will make it with either Elizabeth Taylor or Kim Novak starring. He also has the newly published Pierre Boulle novel, "The Other Side of the Coin," and best-seller "Anatomy of a Murder" and "Exodus" in the hopper.

William Bendix is co-starring with Anthony Newley and Anne Aubrey in "Idle on Parade," a comedy with music that went before London cameras this week. It's about a tough Irish army sergeant major who uncovers a teenage rock-folk idol among his new recruits . . . Luther Adler has signed for a part in "The Last Angry Man," upcoming Paul Muni picture. Muni plays a slum doctor thrust into the limelight by a desperate TV producer, played by David Wayne. Other top roles have been assigned to Betsy

Fight Goes On to Select GOP Leader

Liberals May be Ready to Divide, Defeat Party

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Republicans still are fighting Republicans in the senate contest for the selection of a leader. Some of the group calling themselves liberal give the impression that they want to cease being an opposition party. They show an Lawrence affinity for what the Democratic liberals advocate and perhaps belong in the Democratic party. They seem to be intensifying a feud that could alienate conservative voters of the Republican party throughout the country.

When Sen. Bush of Connecticut says that he wants Sen. Cooper of Kentucky elected leader so as to show that the party "is looking to the future rather than to the past," he is by inference attacking Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the conservative group in the senate.

The Illinois senator was a disciple of the late Sen. Taft. He has supported the Eisenhower administration on every one of its vital programs, including civil rights. The function of a Republican leader in the senate today is not only to carry out by his own vote the wishes of the administration, but to persuade other Republicans to support the legislative program of the administration.

Always Behind Like The liberal Republicans claim they are 100 per cent behind the Eisenhower administration and always have been. So the main problem is to keep the conservatives in line. Would a Republican liberal who condemns the conservatives be able to accomplish that feat, or would he widen the breach in the party? To ask the question is to answer it, but the Republican liberals are talking as if it didn't matter whether or not they won the conservative Republicans to their side.

What is the real difference among the Republicans in the senate? Some of them have been stamped by the last election returns into thinking that conservative Republicanism was repudiated at the polls. The theory that more and more billions of the taxpayers' money should be expended for welfare and that the budget can be kept unbalanced indefinitely has gained ground among the liberals in both parties. It's the same old story of New Deal days when it took a war to rescue the country from the heavy unemployment that "leaf-raking" and WPA extravaganzas had failed to cure.

Both liberals and conservatives on the Republican side really went down to defeat in last month's congressional elections primarily because of the recession. The party in power always suffers when there's a recession. The voter didn't pass judgment on liberal or conservative issues. He voted his grievances, blaming the party leadership in the White House for economic ills it had not created.

Next Test The next test will come in the approaching session of congress when the administration announces its policies. These will fit in far more with the established conservative doctrine than with the spending theories of the liberals. It will take some sturdy fighting in the congress to defend the administration's fiscal policies. Anyone who isn't in sympathy with such fiscal policies and believes in the spending ideas of the liberals on the Democratic side isn't going to be able to put up much of a battle for the administration.

When the president's message is read to congress next month it will be denounced by liberal Democrats because it will not recommend the spending of the billions they want to see spent. The administration will be on the defensive and it will need a veteran battler like Senator Dirksen who is experienced in political combat to inspire the Republican party generally.

History Repeated It's curious how history repeats itself. Back in 1910 the Republicans lost the house of representatives to the Democrats for the first time in 18 years. The issue was the high cost of living which was blamed on the protective tariff. The liberals of those days were called "insurgent Republicans." They fought the conservatives so bitterly that two years later the Republican party put two rival presidential candidates in the Democratic vote, and the Democrats easily won the presidency.

There are signs that the 1958 liberals in the Republican party are ready to do it again—to divide their own party and force its defeat in 1960. President Eisenhower is the only man who can keep the liberals from breaking up the party and, judging by the firm way he has announced his stand on a balanced budget, the "spending" wing of the party cannot expect much encouragement from him. The issue of 1960 could well be between a depreciated dollar or a sound dollar. On that issue an overwhelming majority of the people will be found supporting a stable dollar. (Copyright, 1958)

Jaycettes to Lead Mothers' March Jan. 27

County Goal for March of Dimes Is $50,000

Appleton's Jaycettes have volunteered to lead the March of Dimes Mothers' March, according to Ora Luebben and Thomas K. Schneider, co-chairmen of the city's 1959 campaign.

The Jaycettes have appointed Mrs. Frederick Freyberg and Mrs. Don C. Smith, co-chairmen of the event. This year's Mothers' March will take place Jan. 27, between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. More than 1,000 Appleton women will visit every home in the city.

The Jaycettes have supported several charitable drives, giving $3,500 to Memorial hospital, baskets to the needy at Thanksgiving, and nursing scholarships to outstanding Appleton High school graduates.

Headquarters for the Mothers' March will be the Appleton State bank. Throughout the evening of the march various ward chairmen will report in with the total collections from their sectors.

The 1959 goal of $50,000 is an increase of 66 per cent over last year's donations and has been set to meet the National Foundation's expanded program. The program includes patient aid for polio and arthritis victims, in addition to study and research in the fields of birth defects, arthritis and disorders of the central nervous system as they affect those under 19.

To Your Good Health

Normal Child Can Get Good Grades; They Needn't be A's

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: If possible will you write something of the harm a parent can do by insisting that his child make straight A's and telling him everyone can do so if he tries? I realize this is not in line with your work but I hope you can comment on it. — J. F."

Well, I wouldn't say it does not come within my line of work. I'm not a psychiatrist but I don't think you have to be one to understand something about human reactions to various problems.

It's my opinion, certainly based in part on my own life, that a bit of pushing is good for one. You don't know what you can do until you have to. Or vigorously want to.

A little coaxing, a little encouragement, a little judicious pushing makes us all go better.

A touch of the whip makes a race horse move faster. But a flogging ruins the horse.

Most people are as smart as horses.

Do I make myself clear? A child in school likes the praise he receives for good marks. Even more, he likes the good feeling inside himself that comes from knowing that he has worked — and achieved.

But demanding that he get straight A's is unreasonable. A schoolboy whose parent "insists" that he get all A's will react in various ways.

One boy will do it but become a grind who respects grades above all else — and he'll thereby lose his perspective on life. Another will rebel, and get poor marks as a result of rebellion. This is almost as bad. Occasionally a child will crack up under the strain.

Small Percentage Percentage-wise, I suppose the number of pupils who can make all-A records is about as small as the number of fathers who can earn $100,000 a year or the number of mothers who can win beauty contests.

I'm thoroughly in accord with the idea that every normal child, if he will apply himself, can get good marks in school. But all-A records are something else.

It seems to me that the child you are worried about has a perfectly good right to demand that his father first show the way by earning $100,000 a year. Or being elected mayor next year. Or writing a best-selling novel. Of course the child can't really get away with putting this proposition to his father. But maybe you could mention it, and maybe, if papa thinks it over, he might decide that it's mighty nice to have a happy, healthy, interested son, even if he doesn't get all A's.

Cause of Boils "Dear Dr. Molner: My question is about boils and carbuncles. What causes them? Is there a diet to clear them up? — E. B."

Germs on the skin, forming little pockets of infection around, say, the root of a hair, are the cause—usually the staphylococcus germ. A carbuncle is a cluster of such boils. The diet should be wholesome and well-balanced. Often fats are restricted. If the individual is too heavy, total calories should be reduced and weight lost.

New Books

Alsop Brothers Give Inside Story in 'Reporters Trade'

Reporters Joseph and Stewart Alsop, whose writings appear frequently in the Post-Crescent, collaborated to write "The Reporters Trade," one of 20 new non-fiction books at the Appleton library. The reporters tell the inside story of how they obtain news. The book also is a plea for governmental candor and a record of the last 12 crucial years.

Also on the list of new books in the non-fiction category is "The Heritage of the Middle West." It is edited by John J. Murray and is a collection of studies by 12 of the most distinguished historians and students of American life. They have taken the region and explored it from its beginnings to the present.

Gann's New Novel A physician, Myron Prinzmetal, and his patient, William Winter, got together to write "Heart Attack: New Hope, New Knowledge, New Life." The book is directed toward people who have experienced coronary thrombosis and those who wish to avoid one. It includes a cook book for heart patients.

Geoffrey Bocca's "The Adventurous Life of Winston Churchill" is the history, legend and anecdotal account of the life of Britain's famous leader. Ernest Gann, author of best sellers "The High and the Mighty," "Twilight for the Gods," and "Soldier of Fortune," has written a new novel, "The Trouble With Lazy Ethel." The story about two average people takes place on a atoll in the South Pacific. Neither the hero or heroine are glamorous, but Gann's style once again captivates the reader. "Niki," by Tibor Dery, is another novel among the 15 fictional books that will be displayed. It tells the story of a man, his wife and their dog. Erie Stanley Gardner weaves the mystery of a photographer's model and a building contractor in his "The Case of the Calendar Girl." Famous lawyer-detective Perry Mason applies his tactics to the case. The story of a family growing up over a period of decades is told in Alan Gillies' novel, "Side Door to Heaven."

Three Youths Admit Breakins, Car Thefts

16-Year-Old Neenah Boys Confess Stealing 11 Autos, Entering School

Neenah — Eleven stolen cars and three breakins at Lincoln school this fall were cleaned up this morning by the arrest of one youth here Saturday afternoon and two others at Madison Sunday. Police Chief Irving H. Stulp announced. All three Neenah youths are 16 years of age. They also have admitted the chemical supply company breakin at Menasha in which about $20 was taken. The school thefts netted them three AM-FM radios, tubes and two fountain pens. A juvenile hearing has been set for Wednesday morning and the three are being held in detention. A Neenah squad car spotted the three youths driving a stolen car on S. Park avenue about 3 p.m. Saturday. The car, owned by Truman Hawkinson, route 1, Neenah, was stolen from the W. Doty avenue parking lot earlier in the afternoon. The squad car gave chase and the three youths jumped out of the car and fled. The car kept on going and hit a tree. With the aid of a citizen, one of the youths was captured by the police. The other two, Chief Stulp said, hitchhiked to Oshkosh where they stole another car. This car was abandoned at Slinger and a car stolen there which they drove to Madison. A Madison policeman became suspicious of them when he noticed the two driving there and apprehended them. Neenah police went down to get them and obtained confessions to the school breakins and the stolen cars. Four of the cars stolen were taken Friday evening and these have been recovered, the last one being found Sunday afternoon near the fresh air camp south of the city. Cars Taken Friday. Those cars taken Friday were owned by William Anderson, 213 W. Fourth street, Menasha, taken from the Marathon parking lot on W. Cecil street and found near the Fresh Air camp; Mable Spoerl, 315 E. Wisconsin avenue, taken from the parking area off Canal street and found in the E. Doty avenue parking lot; Dorothy McCarty, 217 Railroad street, Menasha, taken from the W. Doty avenue parking lot and recovered at Oak and Doty streets; and Robert Wege, 520 Sherry street, admitted speeding on Third street this morning and was fined $10 and costs. Chief Stulp warned motorists not to leave their keys in cars as in many stolen car cases the keys have been left in the ignition. He said this is the first time these three youths have been arrested for violations.

2 Youths Lose Driving Rights

Menasha — Two youths lost driving privileges for 30 days each for traffic violations and three other drivers forfeited or were fined a total of $20 this morning. Police Justice Arthur Ales revoked the licenses of Richard A. Fulcer, 17, 128 Abbey avenue, Neenah, who admitted making an illegal U-turn, and Richard Stoutz, 17, 733 E. Grant street, Appleton, who pleaded guilty of operating a car on the wrong side of the road and on a sidewalk. Fulcer was arrested Tuesday morning and Stoutz, Sunday morning. Wilfred J. Stulp, 45, 320 First street, and James Wilfling, 31, 801 First street, each forfeited $9 bonds for making unnecessary noises with their cars. They were both arrested on Main street Tuesday morning. Paul Herter, 20, 725 Third street, admitted speeding on Third street this morning and was fined $10 and costs.

Injuries in Construction Work Decline

Oshkosh Man Named Director of State Contractors

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Hazards in construction employment are becoming fewer for workmen.

The Wisconsin chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America reports that the number of injuries on construction projects has declined significantly and steadily during the last three years.

There were 4,067 injuries on construction jobs three years ago. This year the total will be around 3,500.

In the country, according to a bulletin of the association, the frequency of disabling injuries has been reduced from 41 per million man-hours of employment to about 30.

New Board Members

The bulletin of the organization carried an optimistic keynote in commenting about prospects for construction volume next year.

The association has announced the election of new members of its board of directors, including R. W. Kivell of the C. R. Meyer and Sons company of Oshkosh, D. E. Thomsen, of the Thomsen-Abbott Construction company of Marshfield, and T. S. Willis, Janesville.

Conrad Hamann, Manitowoc, is president of the group which recently employed Joseph Fagan of Madison as its manager. Fagan for the last decade has been a staff representative of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce.

One Boys' Brigade Activity that has considerable interest is its model railroad group which meets weekly. Assembling a box car is Jerry Huth.

A Large-Scale Layout is used for the model trains and Bill Kringel is putting one of the trains on the track above while operating the controls below is Tom Hanson.

Note Changes in Social Security

Washington —(AP)—A couple of end-of-the-year reminders on social security changes that may affect your pocket-book.

Social security deductions will take about an additional $2 a month from the paychecks of most working Americans after the first of the year.

The new year will also bring increases of 7 per cent in the social security checks received by 12 million retired persons.

The changes were voted by the last congress.

Government pension checks mailed in February will be 7 per cent higher than before, with a minimum increase of $3. The maximum check for a retired man and his wife, both past 65, will climb from $162.80 to $174 monthly.

Firmness of Decision About Berlin Important

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Berlin — Here in this city, more than 2,000,000 brave and vigorous people have bet their futures on the honorable resolution of the United States and the western allies. If you come here, therefore, the West's Berlin commitment assumes a terrible reality, a grim, almost painful concreteness.

You ask yourself, "Are we going to keep our pledged word to these brave men and women who have relied on us?" And since keeping our pledged word to the Berliners will surely mean being ready for a big war, you ask yourself further, "If we do not utterly dishonor ourselves by some sort of circuitous surrender, does this mean that a big war must come?"

Fortunately, the evidence from Moscow to date suggests a hopeful answer to the second question. Nikita Khrushchev and his fellow policy makers in the Kremlin are quite shrewd and well informed enough to know that no real decisions about the Berlin crisis were taken at the Paris meeting of leaders of the West.

No Decision
Two score and more foreign, defense and other ministers, attended by over a thousand high officials and military officers, met and agreed that surrender in Berlin would equal surrender everywhere. But they did not reach agreement on the only point requiring a hard decision: What specifically to do if the Soviets authorize their East German puppets to renew the blockade of Berlin.

Thus because the Paris rally was not really overwhelming, it is encouraging that the Soviets seemed to have been impressed. Two days after the release of the statement of the guarantors of Berlin—Britain, France and the United States, plus Western Germany, Anastas Mikoyan unexpectedly asked for a visa "to visit the Soviet Ambassador in Washington."

Mikoyan's obvious purpose is to smell the weather in the streets in the capital of the western alliance.

By Soviet standards, the more overt Moscow comments on the Paris rally were also exceptionally restrained.

In addition, passages repeating the worst of Nikita Khrushchev's previous threat were more significantly cut out of the published version of a speech delivered in Warsaw by the Kremlin's chief East German puppet, slumy Walter Ulbricht.

Hump Not Here
All these signs point to the conclusion that the Kremlin is having thoughts about risking a big war for Berlin. At the same time, it is needful to note that we are not over the hump yet. In fact, the hump has not even been reached.

The hump is the specific decision about what to do, if and when Khrushchev begins to carry out his Berlin threat. The spadework for this decision is to be done at Bonn, where the United States is fortunately represented by one of the best American diplomats of this generation, David K. E. Bruce. Together with the West Berliners and appropriate military officers, Bruce and his British and French colleagues have studied the cruel, tactical problem of Berlin. After approval by all the governments concerned, the conclusions thus reached in Bonn will become hard western policy.

Secrecy was no doubt one reason for the choice of this way of reaching the ugliest single decision the western alliance has had to take since the end of the second World war. But it is still certain that the decision will not be truly secret. The interests involved are too great. The Kremlin will surely learn about it, if the decision-makers flinch or quail or fudge their task. Particularly in Britain, the tendency to flinch or fudge is pretty strong. The British seriously want to duck the Berlin issue by taking refuge in another air-lift that cannot do the job. America's British policy-makers, moreover, something very like a mass psychosis has now been produced by several different factors, including the past follies of American policy-making. The sharpness of the psychosis was indicated by the fantastic statement of the British embassy in Bonn, that the threat to Berlin was decided by less dangerous than the threat of the British economic dispute with the European partners in the common market. In these circumstances, the Bonn decision-making will not be easy. If the decision is indeed to flinch or fudge, one can predict with bleak confidence that Khrushchev and company will go forward with their Berlin scheme, thus leaving almost no alternative at all except a big war or a big surrender. But on the evidence to date, one can also predict with fair confidence that real firmness will lead to a suspension of the threat to Berlin, at least until the worst period of missile gap begins two years from now. There are several tactical approaches to the Berlin problem that make sense. For example, the city of Berlin cannot be indefinitely supplied by a radar-jammed air-lift; and taking refuge in an air-lift is therefore a slow way to surrender. But although the city as a whole cannot be supplied by air-lift, the allied garrisons in Berlin, numbering only a few thousand men, can be supplied in this manner. This will avoid allied recognition of East German authority over the highways leading to Berlin, and the civilian supply lines can perhaps be safeguarded, in the meanwhile, by an allied promise to resort to armed convoys if the civilian road and rail traffic is interrupted. All the different approaches have their virtues. Every possible approach but direct resort to armed conveying has the weakness of vulnerability to Soviet and East German "salami" tactics. But the details of the future decision matter much less than the firmness of will behind it. (Copyright, 1958)

Oxford Radiates New Atmosphere

Oxford, England — The spires of old Oxford meditate as calmly as ever in the autumnal sunshine, but there's something different about the university. Among the students chattering in the quadrangles the aristocratic Oxford accent is diluted, or even missing.

The broad "A" sounds flatter, and the crowds have a common touch. There is more science and less ancient Greek at this historic seat of polite learning.

A few years ago 3,000 was regarded a comfortable student population. Today the number is just about 8,000, and many of the new students are sons and daughters of such ordinary folks as bakers and policemen.

"Money and titles no longer can get you into Oxford," said an old-timer. "Now you've got to have the intelligence and the preparatory education to get you through the very strict selection processes."

About eight of 10 students are supported, wholly or partially, by some form of scholarship. They are lively youths, ready for pranks. But their first business is to equip themselves to cope with the difficult world.

The new kind of student makes a subtle difference in behavior, and to some extent has caused divisions in the university. Some of the colleges have attracted large numbers of the middle classes, which until lately haven't been conspicuous at Oxford. But a few of the older colleges, notably Trinity and Christ Church, are considered strongholds of the public schools, which in Britain are expensive private schools. Trinity and Christ Church cling stoutly to the traditions, and do their utmost to preserve the Oxford accent, without of course seeming to do so.

Newcomers

But other colleges bulge with newcomers. They give a new flavor to Old Oxford.

For one thing, the subjects of student talk have changed markedly. Oxford always was a center of bright conversation. Light, clever and often immature debate was a highly rated accomplishment. The most earnest discussions were mostly political, with the old university taking pride in its contributions to Parliament and the ministries.

Now the political parties have lost their attraction to undergraduates. Students traditionally are radical and progressive, but the parties have lost their hold here. The communist party is dead, killed by disillusionment over events in Hungary in 1956.

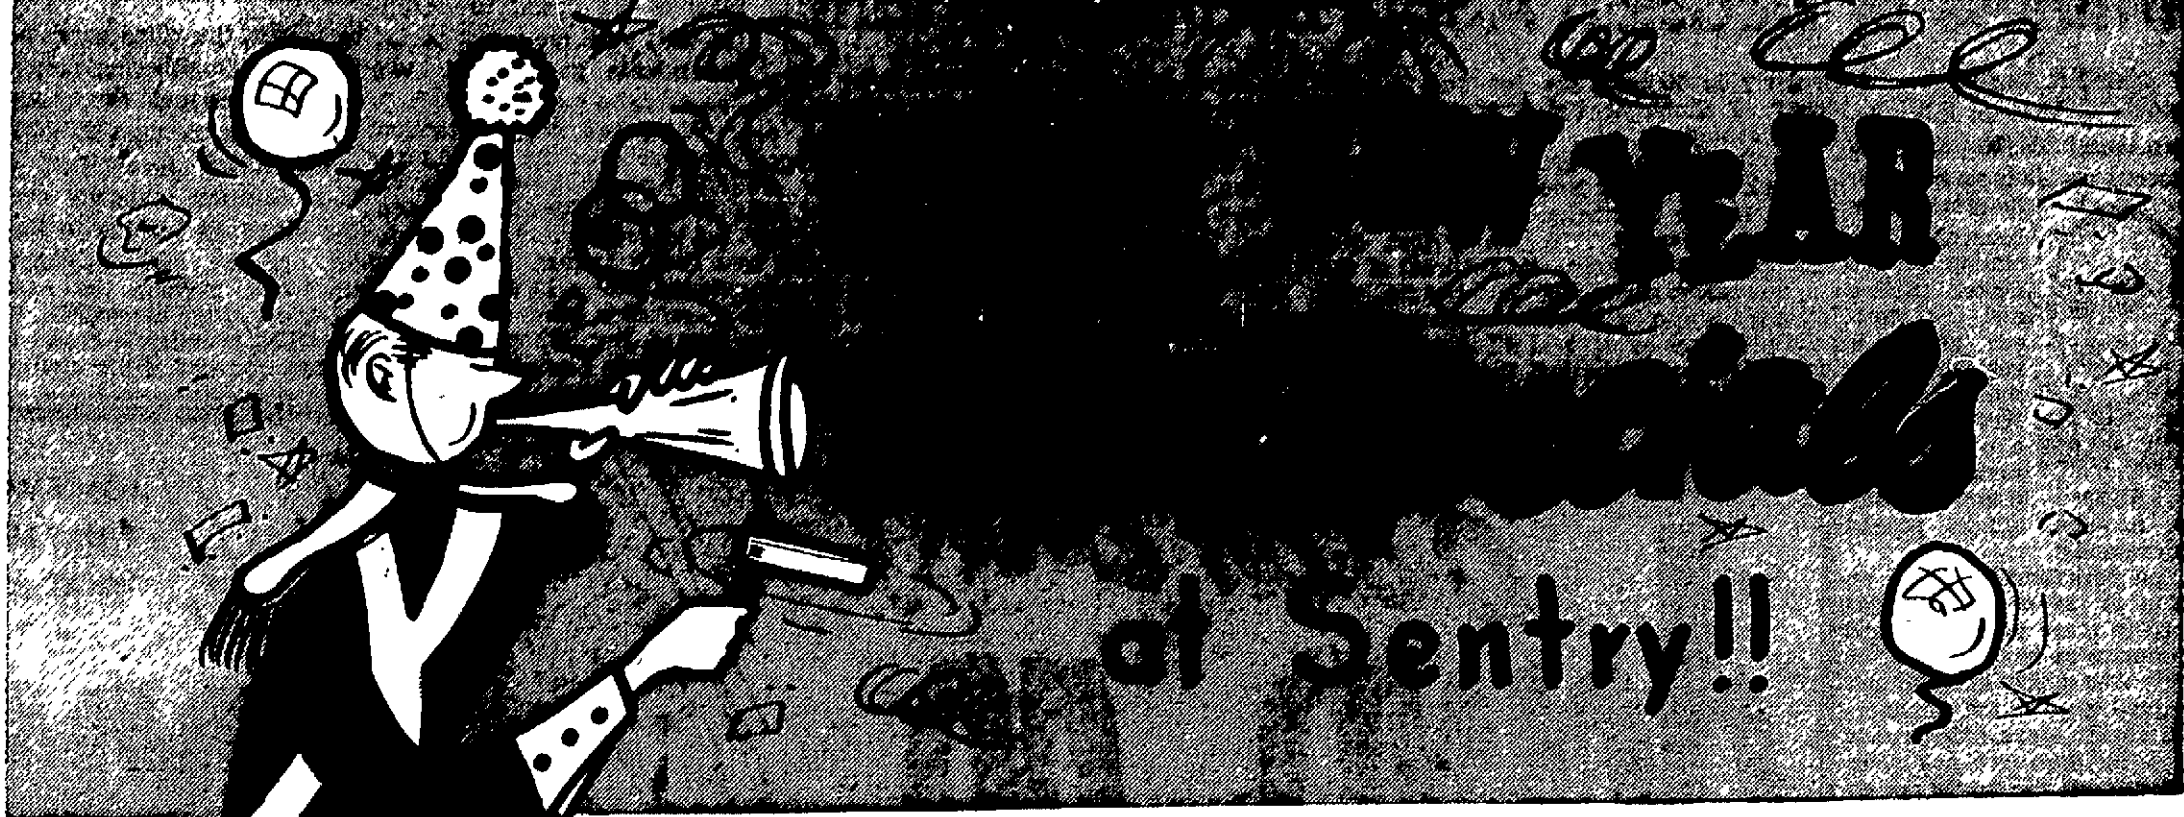

Discussion

Discussions now explore deep issues, such as racial intolerance, capital punishment and homosexuality. To show how they feel on the racial issue undergraduates raised 1,400 pounds ($3,920) toward a scholarship for a non-European, South African student.

In former years it was the practice for a student to live a year or two in college rooms, exposed to university influences 24 hours a day. That isn't possible now because the physical plants of British universities simply do not grow fast enough to house such a rush of new students. So "digs," furnished rooms, now house most of the students, and the city of Oxford takes over the educational process after classes.

Feminine Ratio

Being a girl at Oxford can be a lot of fun. A girl has to be bright, and be willing to work hard. But the ratio in the student body now is one girl to seven boys, and dates are no problem. Besides, sex barriers have been lowered under the new students' impact, so girls mingle freely with the men students.

New York Artist Exhibits Paintings

Oshkosh — Semi-abstract casein and ink paintings by New York artist Helen Gerardia will be on exhibit at the Oshkosh Public museum during January.

The paintings in the show, which is being sponsored by the Bodley gallery in New York, are based on nature. Complex in conception and construction, the colorful abstractions, through graduation of tone and modifications of geometric form, are suggestive of images.

One painting in the show, "Trees", is a grove of white verticals. Another, "Carnival", has gay red, blue and yellow strands looping back and forth across the painting which is punctuated by intersecting spheres.

Helen Gerardia studied at the Art Students league, the Hans Hoffman school, and the Brooklyn Museum school. She has exhibited paintings in museums throughout the country and has had one-man shows at the Albany Institute of History and Art, the University of Maine, Nashville, museum, the St. Louis Public library, Dartmouth college, and the Museum of Natural History and Art at Holyoke, Mass.

The show will open Jan. 4, Stuart Mong, director of the Oshkosh museum has announced, and will extend until Jan. 25.

List Method to Remove Water Spots on Floors

Neenah — Water spots on shellacked floors can be removed by rubbing them with a soft cloth moistened in a half and half mixture of de-natured alcohol and water.

Use a dry, not oily, dust mop to polish waxed floors. Even a trace of oil will soft-

Chicken, beef and salmon fillings for frozen sandwiches keep well in the freezer for three or four weeks. Cheese and peanut butter are also good for freezing. Raw vegetables fillings lose color and crispness when they are thawed. Egg sandwiches aren't a good choice for freezing because the whites get rubbery.

A small fry delight is made by spooning mashed potatoes into individual baking dishes with a center nest of cooked, drained green peas.

Next time you stew apples, add a stick of cinnamon for spicy flavor.

Driver Blacks Out; Three Persons Hurt

Auto Travels 60 Feet; Hits Tree in Highway 21 Crash

Oshkosh — Three Wautoma residents were injured in a 1-car accident on Highway 21, a half mile west of Omro, Sunday afternoon when the driver blacked out and his auto traveled 60 feet before striking a tree.

Glen Neuman, 52, Wautoma, the driver, received chest injuries. Mrs. Neuman, 55, Wautoma, suffered a sprained left wrist and two severe lacerations on the head. Edward Goodchild, 72, Wautoma, Mrs. Neuman's father, is being treated for chest injuries, a bruised right eye, severe head lacerations, and a sprained right foot. All were taken to Mercy hospital in the Miller ambulance.

Mrs. Neuman grabbed the steering wheel and Goodchild attempted to turn off the ignition. A witness said the car was weaving back and forth before it went off the road.

The car was described as a total wreck.

Edward Noble Dies at 76

First to Put Hole in Life Savers, Build Up Business

Greenwich, Conn. — Edward John Noble, the man who put the hole in Life Savers, died yesterday at his home here after an illness of several months. He was 76.

Noble, a businessman and philanthropist, built the candy mints into a multimillion-dollar operation. He also was the first under secretary of commerce.

In 1913, he and J. Roy Allen bought the Life Saver business for $2,900 from Clarence A. Crane. Besides changing the hard mint's design, Noble wrapped the candy in eye-catching paper and designed a display carton.

Within seven years, Life Savers were bringing in $1 million in profits. By 1938, the business was worth $22 million.

Noble was board chairman of the Beechnut-Life Savers Corp. and a former board chairman of the American Broadcasting company.

Noble became the first individual to own a national radio network when he paid $8 million in 1943 for the old Blue network. The radio system later became ABC.

He was board chairman of ABC from 1943 to 1953, when the network merged with Paramount theatres. From 1953 on he was a member of American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc., which became the parent company of the network. He headed the finance committee of the board of directors.

Noble, who flew his own airplane, was appointed chairman of the civil aeronautics authority in 1937 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Noble became assistant to the secretary of commerce in 1939. That year the office of undersecretary was created and he was appointed to it.

He resigned all association with government the next year to take active part in the unsuccessful presidential campaign of Republican Wendell Willkie.

Weyenberg Fund Continues to Receive Gifts

Gifts and donations continue to come in for Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Weyenberg, Kaukauna, who lost their six children in a fire that destroyed their home Dec. 21.

This morning Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon of Kaukauna and Mayor Clarence Mitchell of Appleton, representing the Weyenbergs, accepted $250 in gifts from Montgomery Ward and company.

Mayor Bayorgeon said the disaster funds in Kaukauna amount to about $8,000 this morning. Today's mail continued to bring in donations, although there was a slackening of the pace set immediately after the pre-Christmas tragedy.

Mayor Mitchell said his office has collected $121.65 from 14 individuals and groups.

The gifts presented this morning included a used television set, a dinette suite and a mattress and box springs.

4th Candidate Declares for School Board

He is Frederick G. Kafura, 30, 318 E. Franklin street, a former teacher at Wrightstown High school and now an industrial engineer with American Can company's Marathon division, Menasha.

Others who have taken papers include Earl W. Harder, an incumbent, Malcolm C. Willis, a newcomer, and Ald. Allan W. Sankowsky, who said he will try for two jobs, alderman and school commissioner.

Bucher Denies Fatal Shooting

Trial Date for Kenneth Bucher To be Set Jan. 12

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Brown county's first murder trial in eight years was assured this morning when Kenneth O. Bucher, 19, pleaded innocent in circuit court to the fatal shooting of his stepfather, Elmer L. (Duke) McAllister, in a west side restaurant Nov. 28.

Young Bucher entered the plea to a first degree murder charge after waiving preliminary hearing before Circuit Judge E. M. Duquaine.

Judge Duquaine immediately informed the defendant and his attorneys, Raymond E. Evrard and John Duffy, that a date for trial would be set Jan. 12 when the calendar for the January term of circuit court is called.

Take Precedence Judge Duquaine earlier pointed out that murder trials take precedence over all other matters on the circuit court docket.

Evrard requested that the trial be held late in January and Dist. Atty.-elect Alexander R. Grant agreed—stating that the district attorney's office would need at least two weeks to prepare its case.

Young Bucher, who has been held at the county jail without bond since verbally admitting the gunshot death of his stepfather, was clad in a red jersey-type sweater and dark trousers when he appeared for his arraignment this morning.

His mother, Sarah McAllister, 45, also appeared at her son's arraignment but was not called to the defendant's table.

Mrs. McAllister originally had confessed to the slaying of her husband in the K K Cafe, but withdrew her confession when Kenneth gave his verbal confession to county officers.

Entry of the not guilty plea by Bucher came about two

Police Trace Gun That Killed Senate Witness

San Diego, Calif. — Police say they've traced a pistol believed to have been used to kill Tony Mirabile to a pair of convicted parrot smugglers.

One of the men said it had been stolen from him recently.

Mirabile, a witness before the state senate rackets subcommittee earlier this year, was shot four times after a fight in his apartment early Saturday.

Filippo Acquaro, 22-year-old protege of Mirabile's from Italy, told police he saw a burly man and a knife-wielding blonde woman in the apartment just before the shooting.

Lt. Mort Geer of the homicide squad said a .38 caliber sub-nose revolver found in the dead man's quarters was bought in 1955 by Victor Buono, onetime San Diego policeman and ex-bail broker.

Buono, now of Perris, Calif., said he had loaned the weapon to Ernest Nelson Murray, who like Buono has been convicted of smuggling parrots. Murray told officers he discovered about two or three weeks ago that the pistol had been stolen from a desk in his home.

In the senate subcommittee hearing, Mirabile, 64-year-old former night club owner, had been asked about the Mafia (black hand) society. He had denied any knowledge of the Sicilian terrorist organization.

The dead man's body will be flown to his native Alcala, Sicily.

Weeks after Mrs. E. Madison Paine and Charles Wunsch, Green Bay psychiatrists, examined the defendant upon order of Municipal Judge Donald W. Gleason and found him to be sane.

Bucher's murder trial will be the first of its nature since the Sylvester Smith murder trial here in 1950.

Baltimore Fullback Alan "The Horse" Ameche goes through a gaping hole provided by his teammates to score the winning touchdown in the sudden-death overtime period of Sunday's game with the Giants in Yafkee stadium. The Colts' Lenny Moore gets a good block on New York's Emlen Tunnell (45) at left. Baltimore quarterback Johnny Unitas (19) is at right along with New York's Jim Patton (20). Baltimore won, 23-17, in the first sudden-death overtime in title game history.

23-17 Overtime Win Gives Colts First World Crown

Ameche TD Trips Giants In Playoff

BY JACK HAND

New York — If they play pro football for 100 years, they never can top Baltimore's first, championship snatched in a sudden-death playoff, 23-17, after New York refused to gamble.

The Giants coddled a 17-14 lead with 24 minutes to play after an electrifying second-half comeback. It was fourth down and inches to go on New York's 43. A first down probably would have permitted the Giants to run out the clock on four ground plays. A punt would give the Colts another chance.

Go for broke? Or play it safe?

Colts Strike Back

Coach Jim Lee Howell elected to play it safe. The Giants punted, Baltimore struck back to within scoring range and tied the score, 17-17, on Steve Myhra's 20-yard field goal.

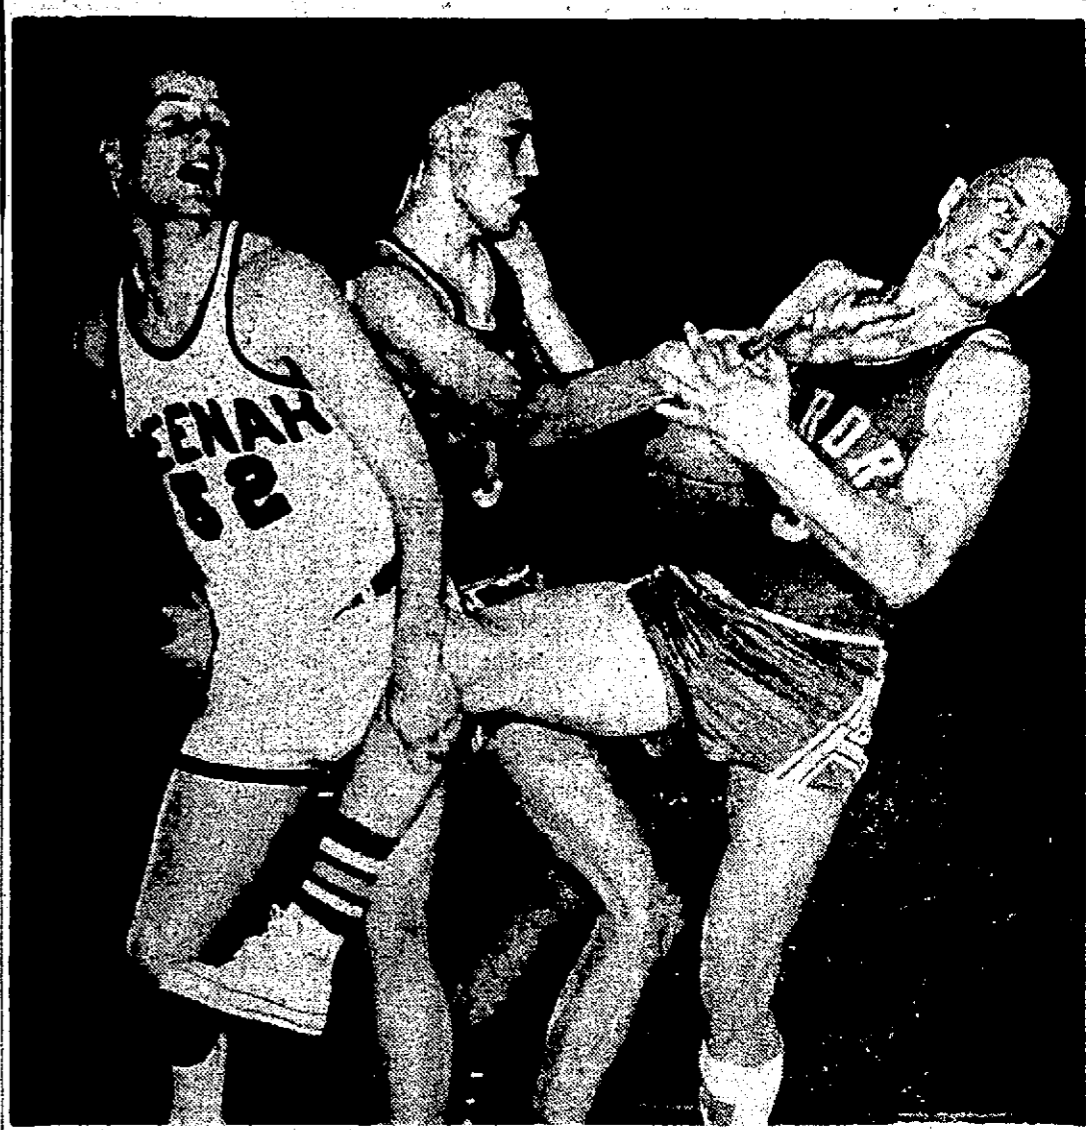

Johnny Unitas' passing and Alan Ameche's inspired running produced the winning touchdown in 13 plays in 8:15.

Through the long winter nights many will question Howell's strategy. If he had gambled and not made the yardage, a Baltimore field goal was almost a sure thing. So he played it safe and lost anyhow.

Perhaps the most gripping moment in the heart-throb special came when Myhra, who had done double duty as a linebacker after Leo Sanford's first period injury, kicked his hurried field goal. The clock showed only 10 seconds were left when he booted the ball high against the glare of the stadium lights.

The Giants and most of the home crowd of 64,185 fans thought they got a break when they won the toss of the coin and chose to receive in the sudden-death extra period, the first ever played in a regular championship game.

Once again they came to a fourth-and-1 situation but this time they were deep in their own territory on the New York 28. A muffed-up gamble would

Warrior Win Fails To Please Hickey

76-60 Decision Over UW-M
Is 7th in Row for MU '5'

Milwaukee — Marquette's 76-60 basketball triumph over University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee last Saturday failed to please the winning coach, but the game brought satisfaction to UW-M's coach.

The victory was Marquette's seventh in a row and their ninth in 10 starts. But Ed Hickey, coach of the Warriors, expressed concern afterward about the losers' ability to score in the first half.

Russ Rehholz, coach of the losing Cardinals, said he thought his players did a good job of slowing Marquette's fast-break attack.

Keep Regulars In
"You know you have the other team worried when they keep their regulars in there almost to the end," he said.

The shorter Cardinal team shot from the outside at the start of the game and took a 9-8 lead with four minutes gone. The Cardinals were ahead 16-13 after eight minutes.

The Warriors found themselves in the next seven minutes and sped to a 36-24 lead, but the Cardinals managed to narrow the margin to 42-36 at halftime.

The Warriors dominated the action in the second half, winding up with 31 baskets in 76 shots for a .408 percentage. The losers made 24 of 73 shots from the floor, posting 32.9 per cent.

"What really hurt," said Rehholz, "was our dropoff in field goals in the second half. And to that our unusual coldness on the free throw line, and there you have it."

The Cardinals made 15 of 38 field goal attempts in the first half, but sank only nine of 37 shots in the second half.

Mike Moran led the victors with 24 points, scoring 12 in each half. Jim McCoy scored 15 points, 10 in the first half.

The Cardinals, suffering their third loss in seven games, were led by Ken Zach and Jerry Grochowski, who made 16 points each.

Marquette starts its 1959 schedule with a game at Detroit university Saturday.

Packers Grab State Sports Spotlight in '58

Burdette-baiter "Birdie" Tebbets as executive vice president. It quickly became clear that the ex-Redlegs' manager would one day become president of the ball club. Joseph Cairnes, who holds that position now, is masterminding owner Lou Perini's multi-million dollar real estate venture in Florida and no longer has the time to devote to baseball.

Marquette also experienced two coaching changes. Jack Nagle stepped down as basketball coach on Feb. 8 and was succeeded by Eddie Hickey on April 5. Hickey's team got off to a jet-like start.

Then, on Thanksgiving eve, Johnny Druze called it quits as football coach in the boiling wake of the worst record in 57 years of Marquette football. A successor is being sought.

"Moon" Mullins, Marquette athletic director whose glowing and not undeserved praise of Druze helped him get the coaching job three years ago, ran into a minor revolt among alumni. They urged his dismissal. He blasted right back at his critics—"their knowledge is worthless"—and apparently is out of danger.

Finish Second
The Badgers of Mill Bruhn finished second in the Big Ten football race with a 5-1-1 record for their most successful season since 1951. The new year promises to be another good one at Wisconsin.

The year held many other memories, some sad, some glad. In January, John Walsh resigned as Wisconsin basketball coach after 22 years and eight titles. Wausau's Elroy Hirsch retired from the program.

February saw Korenak win the North American speed skating championship. Big Mike Moran of Marquette scored 44 points against Creighton for a new Arena record the same month. Three victories were wiped off Superior State's basketball slate because two ineligible players competed through a misunderstanding. Wausau pulled out of the Northern league. The Packers' Russ Bogda died Feb. 23.

Finish Last
"Bud" Foster's Wisconsin basketball team finished last in the Big Ten in March on March 8. Eau Claire's Billy Olson won the national ski jumping championship at Iron Mountain. Beloit gained readmittance to the Midwest conference after a 7-year exile. Burdette, who later was to win 20 games for the first time in his career, ended a 13-day holdout on March 12. The state high school basketball crown went to Madison East on March 22.

Fifteen-year-old Jerry Gerzine of Milwaukee hit an 1,821 series in April to become the youngest 1,800 or better bowler in history. The same month Milwaukee's Frank Benkovich joined five other Wisconsin bowlers in the American Bowling congress Hall of Fame.

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves unloaded his "gutless" blast at National league President Warren Giles and umpires on May 18 following a duster battle in Cincinnati. Bob Harle, hero of the Braves' 1957 flag drive, was traded to Detroit on May 24 and later sent to the minors.

Pitts Loses
Tony Anthony stopped Orville Pitts in the fifth round of a scheduled 10 rounder in Milwaukee on June 12. Pitts didn't make another ring appearance for the rest of the year. The WIAA's Paul Neverman died on June 15.

The Braves' Eddie Mathews made his "We're all tired" remark on July 4. The following day Blackbourn became football coach and athletic director at Carroll college. Haney saw fit to warn his Braves of "girls on the prowl" after a pool dunking party in Hollywood. The Dyna won the Port Huron Mackinac Island race on the fourteenth—and just about every other big race of the year. Mrs. Wilson won the state women's golf championship. Golf also held the spotlight in August as Dick Sucher captured the state amateur title. Cary Middlecoff took the $35,000 Milwaukee open and Bruce the state open. Mickey McCormick, the man Blackbourn succeeded at Carroll, died after brain surgery on Aug. 13.

Spahn posted his twentieth victory on Sept. 13 and became the first lefty in history to win 20 games in a season nine times. The Braves clinched their second straight pennant on the twenty-first thanks to Hank Aaron's 2-run homer. Burdette registered his 20th on Sept. 26.

Blasts 843
Schanen blasted an 843 on Nov. 11. Aaron, Spahn and Del Crandall made the AP's all-star team.

McLean's threat to fire "several defeatists" came on Nov. 3 after the Packers' humiliating 56-0 loss to Baltimore. Clarence Jonen, secretary of the Milwaukee and Wisconsin bowling association, died the same day. The announcement that Schoendienst has tuberculosis shocked the sports world on Nov. 19, but "Red" claimed he'd be back in uniform by next July. The late Red Dunn and Fred Luderus and Chris Steinmetz took their places in Wisconsin's Athletic Hall of Fame on Nov. 20.

Foster was hanged in effigy at Madison on Dec. 12, but "Bud's" boys responded with thrills and victories over Notre Dame and Missouri to take some of the heat off him.

Contrary to appearances, Appleton's Jack Falcus is not playing peek-a-boo in this Saturday night basketball action at Neenah. Falcus has just broken a 2-man Rocket vise to get off a pass to a teammate. Defenders are Jon Halverson (44) and Dick Wilson. The Terrors won, 58-47.

es felt Haley's third-quarter dash—with his team behind 6-7—was the game's turning point.

Burton Fumbles
With the West coming on in the fourth quarter and the score 20-14 East, Leon Burton of Arizona State fumbled a punt return and the East recovered. Six plays later Pietrosante went over from the 2.

"We could have won it if it hadn't been for that fumble," Burton said.

That's open to debate. The East defense held the West to a mere 17 yards rushing although the halftime score had the winners ahead only 6-0.

San Francisco — (M) — "He's going to be a great pro," Michigan State Coach "Duffy" Daugherty declared in lauding Notre Dame fullback Nick Pietrosante, voted the Most Valuable Player in the East-West game.

Off performances in Saturday's annual charity classic for the Shrine Crippled Children's hospital, there could be others in the same category.

Pietrosante scored two touchdowns as the East won, 26-14, and as Daugherty put it, "He was our first - down getter."

The 210-pounder from Ansonia, Conn., gained 95 yards in 20 carries, including his touchdown burst from three and two yards out. That should be good news for the Detroit Lions, who drafted him No. 1 Dec. 1.

Top Lineman
Michigan State's Sam Williams, a 225-pound end from Dansville, Mich., drafted three years ago by the Los Angeles Rams while in military service, won honors as the top lineman. The 27-year-old end stopped the first West drive by throwing quarterback Lee Grosscup, Utah, for losses of five and two yards and kept up that kind of play all day.

San Francisco — (M) — "He's going to be a great pro," Michigan State Coach "Duffy" Daugherty declared in lauding Notre Dame fullback Nick Pietrosante, voted the Most Valuable Player in the East-West game.

Off performances in Saturday's annual charity classic for the Shrine Crippled Children's hospital, there could be others in the same category.

Pietrosante scored two touchdowns as the East won, 26-14, and as Daugherty put it, "He was our first - down getter."

Set Strike Loss At $50 Million

Newspaper Blackout Cast Long Financial Shadow Across Industry

New York — The newly ended blackout of nine major daily newspapers cast a long financial shadow across revenues in numerous industries.

The papers went to press today after striking deliverymen ratified a new contract and returned to work.

During the 20 days of the walkout, losses mounted to an estimated $50 million. The exact total probably will never be known.

Barney G. Cameron, president of the Publishers Association of New York City, representing the papers, calculated the setback to the newspaper publishing business alone as $25 million.

In addition, the pay losses of some 15,000 non-striking employees ran to an estimated $8 million.

The absence of fat Christmas advertising copy had a dual effect.

(1) The paper lost the revenue. (2) The city commerce department said retail stores, deprived of normal advertising channels, missed about 7 per cent of their sales potential. The percentage translated to about $10 million up to the weekend.

Numerous other industries felt the financial impact of the strike.

Shippers of newsprint were affected and about 10,000 of the city's 16,000 newsstand dealers shut down.

Theaters and movie houses were without their main outlets for press notices and ads to draw patrons. Men carrying sandwich board signs — an uncommon sight in this era of modern mass communications — staged a temporary comeback.

Less Communication

Restaurants and sightseeing agencies had much less communication with the throngs of holiday tourists.

Sports attendance was reported down some 25 per cent.

The strike's effects reached to Canada, where many lumberjacks were furloughed. They were not needed to cut trees for newsprint. And some resort hotels, counting on New York City ads to attract guests, were touched by the walkout.

Job hunters, room renters and others who rely heavily on classified ads also were inconvenienced.

Business was generally better, however, for radio and television stations which picked up some of the advertising newspapers could not print.

Subway ads blossomed profusely to give shopping information to potential buyers.

Spotty Pattern

Out-of-town newspapers appeared in a spotty pattern throughout the city and were grabbed up eagerly.

But the circulation managers of newspapers around New York said they turned down large-volume orders from New York dealers whom they did not supply regularly.

Papers in the metropolitan area which were not involved in the strike did not attempt appreciably to expand their circulation to the newspaperless city.

Two Spanish-language dailies included sections in English and enjoyed huge increases in circulation.

College students twice put their journalistic efforts on display in the city. The Harvard Crimson distributed a special New York edition and students at Fairleigh Dickinson university in New Jersey also prepared a strike copy.

The workers who probably missed the newspapers less than anyone were city sanitation department employees, who deals with the papers more as refuse than reading matter.

New York Giant Ball-Carriers ran every which way on a pass-fumble-run play for an 86-yard gain in the third quarter against Baltimore Sunday. It starts with Kyle Rote taking a pass, eluding Baltimore's Milt Davis (20) and then Carl Taseff (23) but fumbling when hit by Andy Nelson (80). Alex Webster (29) recovers ball and carries to the 1-yard line where he was forced out of bounds. The Giants scored immediately thereafter. Baltimore won, 23-17.

Colt Win Touches Off Bedlam in Baltimore; 30,000 Storm Airport

Baltimore — After 11 years of waiting, it finally was "next year" for Baltimore Colt fans.

So when the Colts rallied to win the National Football league championship, defeating the New York Giants, 23-17, in sudden death overtime Sunday, it lifted the lid on a lot of pent-up emotion.

A crowd estimated by police in excess of 30,000 turned out at Friendship International airport to welcome home the champions. It was Baltimore's first winner since the Colts joined the old All-America conference in 1947 and shifted to the NFL in 1950.

Three trainloads of spectators who witnessed the title game in New York's Yankee stadium paraded and shouted their way through Pennsylvania station.

Elsewhere in the city there was bedlam.

Soon after Alan Ameche plunged over for the winning touchdown, residents rushed outside into mild winter temperatures to dance, set off fireworks and shout the praises of the Colts.

"The Colts won. The Colts won," was the oft-heard cheer. Bells rang. Auto horns sounded. Main 1-way streets

Gino Marchetti, injured Baltimore Colt defensive end, holding the game-winning football given him by Coach Webb Ewbank, shakes hands with fullback Alan Ameche after the Colts' victory over the New York Giants. Ameche toted the ball for the touchdown that won the game, 23-17, in a sudden-death overtime to give Baltimore the National Football league title. Marchetti broke his right ankle in the fourth quarter. In the background is Colt President Carroll Rosenbloom.

Big 10 Opens Title Chase Saturday

MSU, Purdue, Northwestern Still Look Like Powerhouses

Princeton as its foe and unbeaten Michigan State journey south to meet Duke in the Dixie classic.

In other regularly-scheduled non-conference games this week, Illinois meets Kentucky at Louisville and Wisconsin is at Butler Tuesday night. Notre Dame is at Northwestern Wednesday and Brigham Young is at Ohio State Thursday.

Saturday afternoon, Indiana's defending champions and Michigan State kick off the race with a regionally-telvised game. Night games find Ohio State at Illinois, Iowa at Northwestern, Michigan at Purdue and Wisconsin at Minnesota. Right down the line, the five home teams figure to win.

So far, there has been little evidence to contest pre-season estimations which rated Michigan State, Purdue and Northwestern—not necessarily in that order—the powerhouse of the Big Ten.

Michigan State is unbeaten in four games, Purdue lost its opener to Kansas State and then won seven straight and Northwestern has a 6-1 record and knocked off West Virginia Saturday in a double overtime, 118-109.

Northwestern Coach Bill Rohr said "I'll be disappointed if the West Virginia game didn't give us the confidence we need to be a great club."

Purdue wrapped up the Hoosier Classic Saturday by dumping Notre Dame, 74-59, and Indiana lost to Butler on the same program, 81-76. In the only other game, Ohio State made it two straight with a 75-66 triumph over Princeton.

4 of Nation's Top 10 Quints in Dixie Classic

By The Associated Press

The college basketball fan heard giving out with "I wish I were in Dixie" isn't whistling in the dark. He's in tune with the times, brother.

For while more than a dozen holiday tournaments are on the schedule today, the majority of the big boys have converged on Raleigh, N. C., for the Dixie classic.

Four of the nation's top ten teams entered the Dixie, and Tuesday night's semi-finals could see them banging heads in a doubleheader, providing all survive today's opening round.

Cincinnati (No. 2) met Wake Forest, North Carolina (No. 3) faced Louisville, N. C. State (No. 6) was paired with Yale and Michigan State (No. 9) took on Duke.

Kentucky Plays

Meanwhile, unbeaten Kentucky, idle for a week after winning its own invitational tournament, puts its No. 1 ranking on the line against Navy at Lexington. The Kentucky boys have won eight straight this season.

Championships will be decided tonight in ECAC Holiday festival at New York, the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City, the Far West classic at Corvallis, Ore., the Queen City invitational at Buffalo, N. Y., and the South-west conference tournament at Houston.

The Big Eight tourney reaches the semi-finals with the championship tomorrow night.

The Motor City, Orange bowl, Gator bowl, Sugar bowl and Richmond Invitational tournaments, all 4-team affairs, get under way tonight, while the Carrousel Tournament at Charlotte, N. C., an 8-team battle like the Dixie, opened with a twin bill this afternoon.

have given the Colts a sure-game-ending field goal. The punt was the obvious strategy and Chandler boomed a long one that Taseff returned a yard to the Colts' 20.

Ameche Scores

In 13 plays, Baltimore's fine offense ground out a touchdown with Ameche crashing over right guard from the 1 through a gaping hole.

Unitas, who couldn't play when the Giants beat the Colts, 24-21, in the regular season because of three damaged ribs, was simply tremendous. The former Louisville star, who was snatched from the sandlots by the Colts, completed 26 of 40 passes for 349 yards.

Time and time again he hit Ray Berry, who caught 12, on beautiful pass patterns that split the Giants' defense.

Gino Marchetti, who suffered a broken ankle and was carried off the field on a stretcher late in the game, rushed Giants' quarterback Charley Conerly all afternoon. The Colts' defensive line was superb, giving Conerly little time to throw, the line backers covered in excellent style and the deep men did their job.

Conerly connected with Bob Schnelker for a 46-yard pass on the first play of the fourth period and threw to Frank Gifford for the touchdown that put the Giants ahead with only 53 seconds gone in the period. Pat Summerall's second conversion made it 17-14.

Gifford, whose 38-yard run set up Summerall's field goal, fumbled in the second period and the Colts marched from the Giants 20 to score with Ameche smashing from the 2.

Another Gifford fumble as New York had the ball on the Colt 10 spurred Baltimore to a 86-yard drive in 14 plays. Unitas hit Berry with a 15-yarder for a 14-3 half-time lead.

Webster Picks It Up

A Giants goal stand gave New York the ball on their 5 late in the third period. An 86-yard gain soon resulted when Conerly passed to Kyle Rote, who fumbled when hit but teammate Alex Webster picked up the ball and raced to the 1. Then, Mel Triplett

Your Problems

Problem of Aged Parents Dates To Stone Age; Still Current

BY ANN LANDERS

Dear Readers: Once in a blue moon I will devote an entire column to a single letter. I do this when the letter is, in my opinion, one of extraordinary interest to a great many people. Today the moon is blue.—Ann Landers.

DEAR ANN: Why do you constantly advocate segregation? I am referring to your stand that elderly members of the family be shipped off to the Old Folks' home.

The problem of aged parents has been with us since the stone age. It has never been borne so lightly by any generation as the current one. And your advice, Mrs. Landers, hasn't done much to promote family peace and harmony.

Grandfathers' chair has been a respected if not revered institution in a great number of American families since Plymouth Rock and Jamestown. Your automatic suggestion that children pool their funds and send mama and papa to an institution shows little compassion and no understanding.

I am fortunate. I have money and could well afford to pay my own way in the best of the institutions for the aged. But I have reason to believe my children would prefer to have me live with them as long as the good Lord allows.

Why do you create doubts in the hearts of elderly people who feel secure and content with their families? I think you do untold harm. Will you print this letter please? You claim to be fair. We shall see.—Geriatric G.

Dear G.G.: You write so well. It's a shame you don't read.

This is a problem column. People who write usually do so because they are having trouble of one sort or another. In regard to aged parents, it is rare indeed that I get a letter saying "I just love my 82-year-old mother-in-law."

"Gramps is a joy to have around the house." Because of the nature of this column, I get the best—not the bouquets. People write when things are bad — not good.

Although no two problems are exactly alike, a thread of similarity runs through many of the letters dealing with aged parents. More often than not, one son or daughter is saddled with the total responsibility for one or both parents, while several brothers and sisters refuse flatly to help out in any way whatever.

In some cases the parent is meddlesome, crochety or an out-and-out trouble-maker. I've had many letters from harassed daughters-in-law who describe the back-breaking job of caring for an older person who is physically incapacitated, childish, and not in control of his faculties.

One woman wrote recently, "I love my father-in-law dearly, but I'm afraid if I don't get some help I'll die before he does. He's 79 years old, has no sight and I must care for him like an infant."

Gold and White Theme

5 Young Women Introduced at BDM's First Coronet Ball Saturday

Wearing small golden crowns and dressed in "debutante white," five young women had the honor Saturday night of being the first Butte des Morts club daughters to be presented formally to the club membership at the Coronet Ball.

Participants in the new tradition at the 34-year-old club were Miss Judith Ann Baldwin, Miss Patricia Eustice, Miss Judith Claire Goehler, Miss JoAnn Therese Rankin and Miss Patricia Mary Sherry, all of Appleton.

Standing on a white dais, roped off by gold ribbons, the young women were introduced individually to the assembly by Karl P. Baldwin, club president, who also had the honor of crowning his daughter during the evening ceremonies.

Huge Golden Coronet

Suspended over the heads of the presentees was a huge golden coronet, carrying out the theme of the ball. Specially designed for the occasion, the large 5-sided crown was fashioned of gold metallic rope and gold ornaments in prism shape.

The presentation took place at 9:30 p. m., Mr. Baldwin awaiting the appearance of the presentees at a podium before the main fireplace in the club dining room. Adding to the formality were the gold ribbons and magnolia leaves trimming the podium, while the white-draped dais was set off by metallic roping.

Each presentee, with the exception of Miss Baldwin, was escorted by her father down a white carpet to the dais. Her entrance was heralded by a song of her selection played by Mrs. Eric D. Lindberg, Appleton, at the organ.

Sprinkles of Gold Dust

As the young women walked, gold metallic dust from "pouf" nosegays sprinkled the carpet. The "poufs," attached to the wrist by a ribbon, consisted of gathered white tulle and gold tric-a-line, a French metallic cloth. The small fluffy balls were studded with tiny white chrysanthemums and rhinestone dew drops.

During the ceremonies, fathers introduced their daughters to Mr. Baldwin, who in turn, presented the young women to the assembly and placed a small jeweled coronet on their heads. The graceful crowns were made of small sprays of rhinestones set in feathery clusters on a band.

Fathers and daughters then formed a line in front of the fireplace. Prior to promenading into the ballroom, the young women curtsied to the assembly.

Dance With Fathers

After the presentation, club members were ushered into the ballroom by husbands of ball committee members. The assembly then awaited the appearance of the presentees and their fathers.

The young women had the first dance with their fathers, the second with their escorts and the third with club officials. Joining them at the dance were young couples, friends of the presentees.

For the event, the club ballroom was decked with myriad small prisms in gold and colors hung from the ceiling. At the doorway, double gold foil ornaments, in diamond shape, were suspended in a free-moving cluster. In a corner, a white flocked tree stood majestic with large golden balls.

Crowned by Father

To the strains of "Stardust," Miss Judith Ann Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin, 707 S. State street, was introduced. Her escort for the dance was Allen Smith Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cunningham, 221 N. Lawe street, while her brother, Charles, showed her to the dais, where she received her crown from her father.

Like the other presentees, Miss Baldwin wore a floor-length gown. A boat neck set off a French embroidered lace bodice cut in empire style. An extremely full peau de soie skirt was fluffed by nylon net underskirting.

Miss Eustice, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Eustice, 1640 Palisades drive, chose the song "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody." Her escort was William Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Schultz, 2114 N. Clark street.

Roses Trim Skirt

Tiny embroidered roses sprinkled the hoop skirt of the presentee's French organdy formal. The frock's sweetheart neckline was edged in silk tulle.

The tune "What Will I Do?" announced the entrance of Miss Judith Claire Goehler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Goehler, 620 W. Glendale avenue. After the presentation, she was joined by her date, Michael Cochrane, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cochrane, 503 E. Circle street.

Miss Goehler's gown was fashioned from white nylon sheer. A matching stole lay over the softly draped strapless bodice, while the bouffant skirt fell over taffeta.

The music "Lovely to Look At" was played for Miss JoAnn Therese Rankin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Rankin, 507 W. Parkway boulevard. Francis Ebben, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ebben, 922 W. Summer street, was her companion for the evening.

Selects 'Deep Purple'

Tiny flowers in white and green embossed the skirt of Miss Rankin's gown in flocked nylon sheer. The panel front skirt was shirred at the hipline and through the back of the skirt for a bouffant effect. The bodice was styled with an off-the-shoulder neckline.

Miss Sherry, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Sherry, 1013 E. Glendale avenue, selected the song "Deep Purple." She was escorted by James Koffarnus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Koffarnus, 1405 W. Grant street.

Miss Sherry's strapless ball gown was created in schiffli embroidered nylon organza and nylon tullane over taffeta. The full skirt was trimmed by an apron of embroidered organza and three tiers of nylon tullane ruffles accented by bands of taffeta and tiny bows.

June Graduates

The five young women are all June high school graduates, and will return to freshman studies at college after the holidays. The Misses Baldwin, Goehler and Sherry attended Appleton High school, while the Misses Eustice and Rankin received diplomas from St. Mary Catholic High school, Menasha.

Miss Baldwin will resume classes at Stanford university, Palo Alto, Calif., Miss Eustice at Alverno college, Milwaukee, and Miss Goehler at Drake university, Des Moines, Iowa. Miss Rankin is studying at Marquette university, Milwaukee, while Miss Sherry will resume work at the University of Wisconsin.

Prior to the presentation, the young people were entertained at a cocktail party at the Rankin home. The evening closed with a post-dance party at the Goehler residence.

Gold and White Decor

Dinner was served at the club from 7 to 8:30 p. m., with the presentees, their escorts and special guests dining separately. Parents of the young women and committee members and their husbands were entertained at pre-dinner cocktails by the Baldwins at their residence.

Decorations throughout the club carried out a gold and white theme. In the main dining room, parents of the presentees dined at tables trimmed with centerpieces consisting of white doves holding rhinestone balls in their beaks. Gold magnolia leaves set off the bases.

Other guests were served at tables trimmed with small

Harke Scores 38 but KRA Loses, 89-79

Neenah Hewitt's Balanced Attack Paces BABA Win

Kimberly — Despite a 38-point scoring spree by Allan Harke, the Kimberly Recreation association cagers dropped a 89 to 79 BABA tilt to Hewitt's of Neenah here Saturday night.

Hewitt's well balanced scoring punch was too much for the KRA as Harke and Dick Verbeten were the only consistent scorers.

Harke sunk 18 field goals and a pair of free throws for his 38 markers. Verbeten had runnerup honors for the game with nine field goals and six tosses for 25 points.

Hewitt's had five players hit in the double figures. Pat O'Keefe was high with eight buckets for 16 points. Bill Zittlow had 15. Tom Schultz added 14 while Ralph Kiesow and Pat Caspersen each scored 13.

First Quarter Lead — The winners took a 25 to 21 lead in the first quarter and then scored 21 in the second period while the KRA had 17. This gave Hewitt's a 46 to 38 lead which they maintained the rest of the way.

In the third period Hewitt's had 23 points while the KRA scored 22 and in the final frame it was 26 for the winners while the losers had 19.

Harke and Verbeten had 38 and 33 field goals for the KRA and 63 of the 79 points.

The box score:

Benefit Cage Tilt Tonight Planned for Victims of Fire

Kaukauna — The recently organized club cage squad will play its second game at 8:15 tonight, a benefit tilt against Hewitt Machine of Neenah. Proceeds of the game will be turned over to the Floyd Weyenberg "disaster fund" started by Mayor Joseph Bayor. Club members have been selling tickets for a week and report it will be impossible to accommodate all who purchased tickets.

The game will be played in the Kaukauna High school gym with a preliminary tilt at 7 o'clock to match Park school against Trinity Lutheran school, both teams from the City Basketball league. Officials are expected to donate services for the game.

Team Members — The Kaukauna Athletic club dropped its opening game to a team of traveling All Stars but showed it has a fairly strong line-up with good balanced scoring power. The team is made up of individual stars from the Kaukauna City league and includes players from other communities in the area.

Members of the squad include Ken Roloff, Gene Ploetz, Gerry Hopfensperger, Pat Caspersen, Dick Busse, James Walsh and Mike Walsh of Kaukauna, Dick Mulry and Roger Vander Wyl of Little Chute, and Dick Rine of Neenah. The invaders are one of the stronger area teams and also play many exhibition tilts during the cage season.

Speed's bar is third with a 27-15 mark and two teams are tied for fourth and fifth with 26-16 marks. Other high scores were posted by Annie Kersten, 512, and Betty Glaff, 196.

Volleyball League May Open Next Week At Little Chute Gym

Little Chute — Activity in an organized volleyball league may open next week if enough men express an interest in the sport, according to recreation director, Bill Fitzpatrick. Games would be played on the second and fourth Wednesday or Thursday of each month at the St. John High gym. If not enough interest is shown in the sport the plan will be dropped.

Men who wish to participate are asked to contact either Fitzpatrick, Carl Versteegen, Jim Bongers or Reggie Hermesen.
